

INTERNATIONAL

Herald

Tribune

Published with The New York Times and The Washington Post

No. 27,209

PARIS, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1970

Established 1887

Israeli Jets Raid Posts Along Suez

SAM-2 Site Among Targets in Egypt

TEL AVIV, July 8 (UPI)—The Israeli Air Force attacked the Soviet-Egyptian surface-to-air missile system again in raids on the Suez front today, a military spokesman said.

All Israeli jets returned safely from day-long intermittent strikes, he said. Targets included a SAM-2 missile site in the southern sector of the Suez Canal zone, the spokesman said. The jets also blasted Egyptian Army camps, bunkers and artillery and anti-aircraft positions in the canal zone, he said. Israeli jets struck again this evening, this time attacking military targets in the canal zone's northern sector, and again all returned safely, a spokesman said. Specific targets were not disclosed.

- Cairo officials say they are reading "between the lines" to find hope in U.S. proposals on Mideast. Page 2.
- U.S. ambassador in Moscow instructed to express American concern over growing danger in Mideast. Page 2.

Israeli communications for the last two days have not mentioned missile sites as targets in the continuing raids. This prompted speculation that Israel was avoiding the missile system, which downed three Israeli jets in six days of attacks.

The spokesman did not say if the site hit today was destroyed. Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, said Israeli jets had so far destroyed five SAM-2 sites and damaged two others.

"Egyptian ground fire hit an Israeli aircraft over the Suez Canal area when Israeli formations attacked today, an Egyptian military spokesman said in Cairo. He said 10 Israeli planes attacked in all sectors of the Suez Canal today, killing three Egyptian soldiers and wounding eight, but failing to reach their objectives."

In an address to Israeli officers yesterday, Gen. Bar-Lev spoke of Soviet military intervention as yet another seemingly unmountable challenge facing Israel.

"But we have always managed to overcome these challenges and have found the appropriate answers to the problems which have arisen. This time too we shall know how to find the answer to this new and serious situation," he said.

"TIGER CAGE"—Thomas R. Harkin, a staff member of a House of Representatives study team just back from Southeast Asia, says this picture shows political prisoners peering out from a "tiger cage" cell on Con Son Island, a South Vietnamese prison.

House Unit Rejects Charges Of Cover-up on Vietnam Jail

But Debated Publicizing It

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UPI)—Members of a House fact-finding committee today rejected charges they tried to cover up prison abuse they discovered in South Vietnam. But they conceded they debated at length on whether and how much to publicize it.

"Rather than just talking about it, it seems to me the committee moved properly to correct it," Rep. Ross E. Anderson, R., Ind., senior Republican member of the 12-man committee, said after the bipartisan group's decision to include so many details of the grim findings in its official report.

When advised that two of its members had discovered political prisoners packed into "tiger cages" and windows concrete pits on an island 2 miles off the coast, the committee lodged protests both with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials and were assured corrective steps would be taken, Rep. Anderson said.

"The United States is very concerned about conditions at the South Vietnamese prison, the State Department said today, Reuters reported.

[Spokesman Carl Barthel said it is understood the Saigon government is investigating the situation.]

"Supplemental" Reports

"Supplemental" reports by individual members of the special committee were piling up around the 70-page "consensus" report filed with the House Monday by chairman Rep. J. P. Moynihan, D., N.Y. The main report generally supported U.S. conduct of the war in Indochina.

One report by Rep. William R. Anderson, D., Tenn., and others, already filed or still in the works, calls for U.S. action to make certain the South Vietnamese government follows humane practices in dealing with those it arrests on suspicion of aiding the enemy.

Mr. Anderson also called for the replacement of Elsworth Bunker as U.S. Ambassador to South Vietnam.

Rep. Anderson said Mr. Bunker lacks "forcefulness" and an understanding of "domestic U.S. concerns over the war."

Suppression Charged

Committee staff member Thomas R. Harkin, 50, who helped arrange the Con Son Island prison tour over official objection and against assurances that reports of abuse were untrue, charged at a news conference that after reading the findings of Rep. Anderson and Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D., Calif., a committee majority decided to "suppress" his report. Mr. Harkin resigned his committee job.

Rep. Anderson and Rep. Hawkins, in their own reports and in interviews supported in detail Mr. Harkin's horror stories of conditions "worse than Devil's Island" at the Con Son prison.

Some observers said publication of the findings would arouse hostility in North Vietnam and make peace negotiations even more difficult. Other observers, however, said publication of the findings would have strengthening effect on U.S. stand in seeking better conditions for prisoners in North Vietnam.

Saigon Opens 2 New Fronts In Cambodia

SAIGON, July 8 (UPI)—An 8,000-man South Vietnamese task force has opened two new fronts in Cambodia below the capital of Phnom Penh, where authorities today reported a major new Communist buildup.

Military sources said government infantrymen, armored units, marines and rangers pushed into the Takeo region, 30 miles south of Phnom Penh, and to a point near Neak Luong, 35 miles southeast of the capital, yesterday but made no contact with Communist troops.

The new government operation into Cambodia came as U.S. military sources reported the start of the United States "Phase Four" program to withdraw 150,000 more troops from Vietnam by removing the advance elements of an Air Force squadron.

A force of about 300 men, including 100 crewmen and 200 support personnel, was expected to be withdrawn "within a few days," a spokesman said. Aircraft operated by the unit were transferred from their base in the northern half of South Vietnam and will be shipped home.

Saigon Operation

With Communist troops reported pouring into Cambodia, the South Vietnamese government opened its new operations.

The new troops joined 2,000 other South Vietnamese soldiers who closed out a six-week operation in the region yesterday after killing 1,119 Communist soldiers and capturing over 8,500 weapons. About 18,000 South Vietnamese soldiers are now in Cambodia.

The new drive was designed to keep heavy pressure on Communist sanctuaries and permit the new American troop withdrawals to proceed on schedule.

In Hanoi, a board of officers entered the third day of a five-day conference to draft details for the pullout ordered by President Nixon. About 50,000 Americans are to leave the war zone by Oct. 16, and 100,000 more by next spring.

In Saigon, a U.S. Army security guard killed two civilians and wounded a third early today as they sped away on motorcycles from (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Romanian, Soviet Ties 'Improved'

Bucharest Keeps Independence

By Alfred Friendly Jr.

BUCHAREST, July 8 (UPI)—The 48-hour visit here by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin that ended in cordial propriety today and the new 20-year Russian-Romanian friendship treaty signed during his stay represented an encouraging improvement in relations between the two diverse Communist neighbors, government spokesmen told foreign journalists here.

According to the Romanian official neither country made any significant concessions to the other in the treaty, which replaces a pact first concluded in 1948, when Russian troops still occupied this nation of 20 million people. The new agreement was drawn up and initiated in June, 1968, two months before the Russian-led Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Romania's strong criticism of that action, it has not been altered since, they said.

What has changed in their view is Moscow's willingness to accept Romania's independent foreign policy stance as long as it does not endanger the Soviet Union, either in its quarrel with China or in its military posture in Europe. Within those limits—and the spokesmen noted that future actions will be more significant than treaty language in defining them—Russia is willing to see its ally remain a cautious maverick in the socialist camp.

Officials here are also pleased with a phrase in the treaty's preamble reaffirming the two parties' solemn commitment to the 1955 Warsaw Pact, "in the treaty's period of validity." The same clause also notes that the Warsaw agreement "was concluded in answer to the NATO threat." Both phrases are unique to the Soviet-Romanian accord and are not found in similar pacts Russia has signed with Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

The line about the Warsaw alliance's eventual expiration expresses Romania's hope that both the American and Russian military alliances in Europe can be dissolved in a general détente. The specific reference to NATO, Romanians insist, limits their obligations to join in Russia's defense to hostilities in Europe.

They say firmly that it precludes Romanians becoming involved in a fight between the Soviet Union and China, which Romania is developing such friendly ties that China has offered flood relief here worth about $23 million, twice the United States' gift. Even during the Kosygin visit, Russia sent no significant disaster aid.

The Chinese question, experienced observers agree, will be a key test of Russian-Romanian rapprochement. Last night, Tass, the Soviet news agency, released an analysis of the new treaty stressing the language in Article 8 that binds the parties to help each other militarily in the event of an armed attack by a state or group of states. The Moscow interpretation of this language is that it does not limit the obligation to Europe.

Romanians, however, say Article 8 must be read with the pact's preamble and Article 7, "insuring the inviolability of the frontiers of the Warsaw Treaty member states" and not as a free-standing, world-wide commitment.

Among the actions that will set the tone for future relations will be Soviet performance in maintaining (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Gerard C. Smith, chief U.S. arms negotiator.

'Limited' Accord In SALT Talks Is Sought by Nixon

By Chalmers M. Roberts

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UPI)—President Nixon has instructed his negotiators at the strategic arms limitation talks in Vienna to seek a limited rather than a comprehensive agreement with the Soviet Union as their first priority.

Mr. Nixon's green light to chief negotiator Gerard C. Smith is expected to mean that Friday's SALT meeting will see the beginning of efforts to pin down an agreement.

The term "limited" is something of a misnomer, since what is contemplated, if it eventuates, would be the most far-reaching curb on the nuclear arms race in 24 years of Soviet-American negotiations, beginning with the Baruch plan in 1946. The agreement Mr. Nixon has decided to seek involves these two points:

- A gross numerical limitation on the total number of (a) rival land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs), (b) submarine-based missiles and (c) long-range heavy bombers. One bomber equals one missile in this count.
- A low level of rival anti-ballistic missile (ABM) defense systems. The Russians have talked of "zero ABMs" but the latest indications are that some ABM defenses would be permitted, but no greater than the current Soviet level, with an American right to match it.

The Soviet Union is judged to be receptive to such a two-part pact, but how long it will take to wrap it up as an agreement in principle, or an outline to be initiated by both sides, subject to later treaty drafting, is impossible to forecast with accuracy.

The President's decision means that the issue of multiple warheads, American MRVs (multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicles) and Soviet MRVs, will be left to a later stage of what is expected to be a continuous series of SALT meetings between the two superpowers.

The United States has 1,054 ICBM launchers, 656 submarine-based missiles, and 581 intercontinental bombers, according to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's February posture statement. As of Sept. 1, 1969, Mr. Laird estimated the Soviet Union had 1,060 ICBM launchers, 110 submarine-based missiles and 140 to 145 intercontinental bombers.

However, while the U.S. force (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Three Get Life

Greek Court Sentences 11 To Jail Terms for Sedition

ATHENS, July 8 (UPI)—A Greek military tribunal today sentenced ten alleged Communists to prison terms ranging from two years to life on sedition charges and gave a defense lawyer a year in jail for remarks he made in his summation.

In a separate trial immediately afterward, the military court sentenced Charalambos Golemis, a 48-year-old clerk to 16 years for distributing subversive literature.

Like the other ten, he was convicted under an anti-sedition law passed in 1947 to deal with Communist armed rebellion.

The tribunal also held a preliminary hearing in another trial in which five persons face charges of plotting assassinations, bomb explosions and sabotage. It then adjourned until Thursday.

A five-man tribunal deliberated for 90 minutes before returning ten verdicts of guilty and one acquittal. Three of the defendants were sentenced to life imprisonment plus one year for plotting to overthrow the regime of Premier George Papadopoulos.

Seven other defendants were given jail terms ranging from two to 20 years and one woman was acquitted.

The trial of the 11, all alleged by the prosecution to be members of the outlawed Greek Communist party, was the first of a series of trials of charges against 37 persons.

Lawyer Protests

During today's final arguments, a defense lawyer, Constantinos Kyseridis, had said the tribunal did not have the authority to hear the case because all its members had been officers at the time of the 1967 military coup.

Mr. Kyseridis said only judges not connected with the coup should hear the case.

Prosecutor Ioannis Llagis intervened to say Mr. Kyseridis on the spot found him guilty and sentenced him to a year in jail. Some of the defendants dismissed their lawyers after that lest they face similar action.

Most of the defendants admitted they wanted to overthrow the present government but denied they intended to achieve this through violent struggle.

The three sentenced to life in prison are Nikolaos Kaloudis, 53, Zoran Zorjovolis, 49, and Ioannis Vamvakis, 47. The prosecution had said they were leaders of the Greek Communist party.

The court added the extra one year to their life sentences on charges of using false documents.

In the new trial, a security police witness claimed that the five students belonged to a "conspiracy" organization called Agrarian Anti-Dictatorship. It was of the Provinces, founded in Belgium and directed by the Greek Communist party.

Hassan Will Let Moroccans Vote On Constitution

RABAT, Morocco, July 8 (UPI)—King Hassan II announced tonight that a new Moroccan constitution would be put to the vote in a national referendum later this month and that, if it is approved, the country will return to parliamentary democracy, with legislative elections next month.

The king's announcement virtually puts an end to the state of emergency in force for the last five years, since the king dissolved the country's first parliament because it wasted its time in "what he called 'futile debates'."

The monarch, who made the announcement on the eve of his 45th birthday, said there will be no changes in the "fundamental principles" of the first constitution, adopted by referendum in December, 1962.

This was taken to mean that Morocco will remain a constitutional monarchy, with Islam as the state religion, and that the political parties will be able to participate freely in political life as representatives of the voters.

The text of the new constitution will be put to the vote in a referendum July 24. If it is approved, elections will take place in two phases, Aug. 21 and 28.

3d Day of Asbury Park Trouble

46 Wounded as N.J. Police Halt Rioting With Gunfire

ASBURY PARK, N.J., July 8 (AP)—Shotgun pellets wounded 46 persons—four Negroes critically—late yesterday after state police turned to gunfire to break up a Negro attack and to enforce a curfew.

Fourteen of the wounded were hospitalized and hospital authorities listed 92 gunshot wounds treated during three days of racial trouble in this Atlantic Ocean seashore resort community.

State police said their detectives were investigating whether troopers' shots caused the wounds. State police said they fired only warning shots.

Most of the wounds came during one battle in which about 1,000 Negroes threw rocks, bottles and firebombs at troopers.

Meeting Scheduled

City officials, meanwhile, scheduled a meeting with Negro leaders to discuss demands for improvements in housing, law enforcement and employment. The city's Negro police chief, Thomas Smith, said if calm prevailed he might recommend withdrawal of some outside policemen, one of the demands made by Negro leaders.

The city's oceanfront boardwalk was empty of its usual throng of summer visitors and Springwood Avenue, the main street of the Negro district, was a shambles. However, there were no major fires yesterday. Most stores were burned and looted Monday. Police estimated damage at more than $1 million. There have been 135 arrests.

Two other New Jersey communities also had trouble yesterday. Red Bank, five miles north, imposed a curfew after some firebombings. Freehold, 13 miles west, had five firebomb blasts.

Asbury Park appeared generally calm most of the night, but sporadic shotgun blasts were heard from within the wrecked area and young Negroes at times taunted policemen with shouts of "pig" and "butcher."

CONFRONTATION IN ASBURY PARK—State policemen face a crowd of stone-throwing youths after chasing them from a downtown shopping area of Asbury Park, N.J.

Scheel Trip in Abeyance

Brandt Admits Further Delay In Opening of Talks in Moscow

BONN, July 8 (UPI)—Chancellor Willy Brandt gave the press today a wide-ranging but inconclusive review of West Germany's efforts to negotiate with Communist Eastern Europe.

Mr. Brandt and Foreign Minister Walter Scheel met with reporters following two days of intensive cabinet meetings on foreign and domestic policy. But the biggest news to come out of their press conference was the admission that no decision has been reached yet on when Mr. Scheel will go to Moscow for talks about a non-aggression treaty with the Soviet Union.

The groundwork had been laid earlier this year by West German diplomatic trouble shooter Egon Bahr and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. However, Mr. Scheel's trip, which originally was supposed to take place in June, has been delayed repeatedly as the result of heavy attacks on Mr. Brandt's Eastern policy by his domestic political opposition.

Earlier, there had been widespread speculation that the date would be set this week. The fact that it wasn't was widely interpreted here as a sign that the government was still divided internally about how big a risk is involved in going ahead with the Moscow talks at this time.

Familiar Refrain

What Mr. Brandt and Mr. Scheel did today was repeat a litany that has become very familiar in Bonn during recent weeks. Over and over, they emphasized that the cabinet was still working on guidelines for the negotiations, that nothing would be done to jeopardize the interests of West Germany and its allies and that the Bahr talks represented not a hard agreement but merely a "basis" for further discussions.

Mr. Scheel said that he hoped that the process of review, consultation with parliamentary leaders and the hammering out of guidelines would be completed "by the end of July." But he sidestepped a direct answer to questions about whether his trip might be scheduled for August.

He also confirmed that representatives of all parties in the parliament would be invited to accompany him when he went to Moscow. This, he pointed out, would be in keeping with the tradition established by the late Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who included opposition leaders in his entourage when he visited Moscow in 1955 to establish diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

On East Germany, Mr. Brandt said that a third round of talks, following his two historic but inconclusive meetings with Premier Willi Stoph, would not be productive "if it were just a mere encounter." First, he said, the East Germans must make a specific response to his proposals about establishing "an inner-German relationship." But he added that he was "in no hurry" and optimistic about the long-range outlook.

On Poland: Mr. Scheel said that there were grounds for optimism about reaching agreement in principle on interim recognition of the Oder-Neisse line as Poland's western frontier.

16-Point Agreement

Jordan Peace Plan Backed By Hussein and Guerrillas

AMMAN, July 8 (UPI).—King Hussein and Palestinian leaders tonight approved a civil-peace agreement for Jordan which would turn Amman into a neutral city.

The pact, hammered out over three weeks of negotiations between the Jordan government and Arab guerrillas, laid down 16 points of agreement.

The major items included guar-

Egypt Milder On U.S. Plans For Mideast

CAIRO, July 8 (NYT).—Despite acrid denunciations by Arabs of the latest United States Middle East peace proposals, Egyptian officials are scrutinizing them, "even before the lines," in hope of finding possibilities for discussion, Cairo's official spokesman said today.

A somewhat milder attitude toward the U.S. initiatives was suggested by the spokesman, Ahmed Anis, as United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser continued his political and military consultations in Moscow with Soviet leaders.

Asked whether an amendment to include the Golan Heights would make the U.S. plan acceptable to Cairo, Mr. Anis replied that this was a theoretical question. He reiterated the Egyptian demand that Israel must withdraw from all occupied Arab lands.

Although emphasizing that the Egyptian leadership is earnestly searching for something acceptable in the Rogers proposals, the spokesman complained that a shadow had been thrown over the plan by President Nixon's remark a week ago that the Arabs still aspire "to drive Israel into the sea."

Mr. Anis denied that this is the Arab objection.

Although there are reports of a new Soviet plan for an Arab-Israeli settlement, the Cairo spokesman said that the Russians have not advanced any plan, but rather have submitted clarifications within the context of Soviet, U.S., British and French consultations at the UN.

"Yesterday, UN Secretary-General U Thant said in Geneva that Moscow had advanced 'new and concrete elements' for a Middle East settlement."

Risks of direct Soviet-U.S. involvement in the Middle East conflict appear to have increased pressure on the two superpowers to strive for a political solution.

The U.S. proposals appear to have been a major topic in the Moscow meetings, not so much because of their contents, but rather because of the importance attached by the Arabs to possible changes of attitude by Washington toward the Arab-Israeli conflict.

U.S. Pressure on Israel

No plan, no matter how perfect, the Arabs maintain, stands a chance of implementation until the U.S. is prepared to put pressure on Israel to accept the conditions of the proposals.

The U.S. proposals, advanced by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, suggested a three-month cease-fire, reiterations of agreement by the Arabs and Israelis to the 1967 United Nations resolution, and a revival of the mediating mission of Gunnar V. Jarring, the UN representative in the Middle East.

The Cairo spokesman, at a news conference, said it is "inconceivable" that Mr. Jarring should resume his mission at this time without "a definite mandate."

Beam to See Gromyko on Middle East

U.S. Envoy Expected To Discuss SAM Sites

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UPI).—The American Ambassador to Moscow, Jacob D. Beam, has been instructed to express U.S. concern over military tensions in the Middle East to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, State Department officials said here today.

The department said that the meeting was arranged to discuss "matters of mutual concern" but department spokesman Carl Barthel acknowledged that the Middle East situation would be on the agenda.

Nixon administration officials are carefully studying the changes in the military situation in the Middle East. Officials now acknowledge Israel claims that the Soviet Union has now replaced two batteries of sophisticated SAM-3 ground-to-air missiles along 15 miles west of the Suez Canal.

Presumably, Mr. Beam will bring to Mr. Gromyko's attention the growing possibilities of a direct Soviet-Israeli clash and the serious consequences that would flow from such a move.

There were no public indications whether the United States was moving to supply Israel with some of the 25 Phantom and 100 Skyhawk jets that the Israelis have been requesting for months.

The Israeli Embassy here has warned that Russian pilots soon may be flying over the Suez Canal and even east into Israeli-occupied territory.

The embassy issued a background paper yesterday which said that the Soviet Union had completed three stages of military assistance to Egypt, the latest being the deployment of the SAM-3 missiles near the Suez Canal.

"One must not assume that the Soviets are now waiting to see what concrete response to any, their latest action is going to evoke," the paper said.

The statement did not specify which response, but it was generally assumed that Israel meant that the Russians would be closely watching the U.S. reaction.

24 Howitzers Loaded

Meanwhile, in Cleveland, 24 self-propelled M-109 howitzers, produced at General Motors Corp's Allison tank plant here, were loaded aboard the Israeli freighter Ezer today under conditions of extreme secrecy.

Private security guards carrying automatic weapons guarded the ship. Newsmen were not allowed on board and photographers were chased away from the dock and the loading operation.

The weapons were believed to be part of a U.S.-Israeli arms deal. The value of the shipment was estimated at $2.4 million, based on a $14-million sale of 100 M-109 howitzers to the Netherlands in 1968.

The howitzers resemble large tanks. They fire a 155-mm. shell, conventional or nuclear, and carry a .50-caliber machine gun. They are the U.S. Army's largest direct support weapon.

It was reported that fear of Arab sabotage accounted for the secrecy.

Reds' Treaty Improves Ties

(Continued from Page 1)

regular delivery of the raw materials Romania needs to keep its industries growing. After the open dispute over Czechoslovakia, Russia slowed down many such shipments.

Another area of testing will be Russian help in Romania's efforts to relax tension and build new ties among the Balkan countries. Article 6 of the pact signed yesterday includes a new phrase saying that the two sides will work to develop "mutual understanding and cooperation in the Balkan peninsula and the Black Sea area."

No such language appears either in the 1948 treaty or in the recent Soviet-Bulgarian alliance agreement. Romania is waiting to see whether Kremlin pressure may now persuade Bulgaria to dampen its attacks on Yugoslavia, whose Romanian Republic Bulgaria claims as its own.

Romania, which has good relations with all its Balkan neighbors, thinks itself especially suited to the role of leading a push for unity among them. Romanian officials concede, however, that progress will be slow since the area holds two NATO allies—Greece and Turkey—as well as Albania, and that the general problems of European security and détente come first.

U.S. Limits Salt Goal

(Continued from Page 1)

has been static in numbers, the Soviet force has been growing since then. Mr. Nixon has projected a Soviet ICBM total of 1,200 by the end of 1970, plus 200 submarine missiles. On May 12 Mr. Laird told a congressional committee that the Soviet ICBMs, 220 were the huge SS-9 with 60 more under construction.

Parity Sought

The net of these figures is essential parity in gross numbers which would permit a freeze. The proposed American level for such a freeze remains secret.

As to ABMs, the level to be agreed on will depend in considerable degree on how much of the American Safeguard system Moscow thinks it can accept and be sure that it is not part of a United States preparation for a "first strike" by protecting the population.

There is evidence, though it is not conclusive, of an American desire to retain part of Safeguard as a defense of the ICBM deterrent. There are some, however, who would prefer "zero ABMs" or ABMs limited to the two capitals, Washington and Moscow, and who hope for an agreement which, in a series of cuts, would eliminate most if not all of the Soviet system in exchange for American limitation or elimination of Safeguard.

S. Koreans Kill 2 Reds

SEOUL, July 8 (AP).—South Korean troops killed two North Korean agents yesterday in a gun battle only six miles west of Seoul's Kimpo International Airport, the Defense Ministry announced.

AID said the loans will help finance essential commodity imports from the United States and a fertilizer plant.

NEW YORK'S DISTINGUISHED HOTEL EARLYLE

35 stories of luxurious accommodations. Convenient to shopping, art galleries and museums, theatres and business. Three fine restaurants.

MANHATTAN AVENUE AT 26TH ST. NEW YORK

CABLE TELEPHONE NEW YORK TELEPHONE 6-0822

RELEASE OF NORTH VIETNAMESE—South Vietnamese sailors helping two wounded North Vietnamese prisoners board a South Vietnamese ship in Saigon which will take 86 POWs to near the Demilitarized Zone and release them on Saturday. The conditions of the prisoners' release were worked out at the peace talks in Paris.

U.S. Informs Seoul of Plan For Troop Cut

SEOUL, South Korea, July 8 (NYT).—A government spokesman disclosed today that the United States had officially informed South Korea of its plan to reduce the size of its 64,000-man force here.

The press secretary for Premier Chung Il Kwon told newsmen that notice was given by Secretary of State William P. Rogers to Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu Hah, when they met in Saigon Sunday during the foreign ministers' conference of the Vietnam war allies.

On Monday, the U.S. ambassador here, William J. Porter, called on Premier Chung. Mr. Porter was quoted by the press secretary as having told the premier that he understood that "the United States was planning to gradually withdraw its troops and airmen here, beginning in July 1971, eventually leaving only about 3,000 men."

Mr. Porter said the United States is planning to gradually withdraw its troops and airmen here, beginning in July 1971, eventually leaving only about 3,000 men.

Washington is also reported to be considering giving a total of $1 billion in additional military aid to Korea, spread over five years, to help modernize its 820,000-man armed forces.

South Korea is strongly opposed to any partial withdrawal of U.S. troops until at least 1976, when its next five-year economic plan is to end, President Chun Doo Hwan has declared that the continued presence of U.S. troops at the current level is vital to South Korea's security until this country becomes capable of defending itself.

Consultation Promised

Mr. Porter, however, promised to inform and consult South Korea in details of the troop reduction plan as soon as he received instructions from Washington, according to the spokesman.

It has been reported that the United States is planning to gradually withdraw its troops and airmen here, beginning in July 1971, eventually leaving only about 3,000 men.

Washington is also reported to be considering giving a total of $1 billion in additional military aid to Korea, spread over five years, to help modernize its 820,000-man armed forces.

South Korea is strongly opposed to any partial withdrawal of U.S. troops until at least 1976, when its next five-year economic plan is to end, President Chun Doo Hwan has declared that the continued presence of U.S. troops at the current level is vital to South Korea's security until this country becomes capable of defending itself.

Consultation Promised

Mr. Porter, however, promised to inform and consult South Korea in details of the troop reduction plan as soon as he received instructions from Washington, according to the spokesman.

It has been reported that the United States is planning to gradually withdraw its troops and airmen here, beginning in July 1971, eventually leaving only about 3,000 men.

Washington is also reported to be considering giving a total of $1 billion in additional military aid to Korea, spread over five years, to help modernize its 820,000-man armed forces.

South Korea is strongly opposed to any partial withdrawal of U.S. troops until at least 1976, when its next five-year economic plan is to end, President Chun Doo Hwan has declared that the continued presence of U.S. troops at the current level is vital to South Korea's security until this country becomes capable of defending itself.

Consultation Promised

Mr. Porter, however, promised to inform and consult South Korea in details of the troop reduction plan as soon as he received instructions from Washington, according to the spokesman.

It has been reported that the United States is planning to gradually withdraw its troops and airmen here, beginning in July 1971, eventually leaving only about 3,000 men.

Washington is also reported to be considering giving a total of $1 billion in additional military aid to Korea, spread over five years, to help modernize its 820,000-man armed forces.

South Korea is strongly opposed to any partial withdrawal of U.S. troops until at least 1976, when its next five-year economic plan is to end, President Chun Doo Hwan has declared that the continued presence of U.S. troops at the current level is vital to South Korea's security until this country becomes capable of defending itself.

Consultation Promised

Mr. Porter, however, promised to inform and consult South Korea in details of the troop reduction plan as soon as he received instructions from Washington, according to the spokesman.

It has been reported that the United States is planning to gradually withdraw its troops and airmen here, beginning in July 1971, eventually leaving only about 3,000 men.

Washington is also reported to be considering giving a total of $1 billion in additional military aid to Korea, spread over five years, to help modernize its 820,000-man armed forces.

South Korea is strongly opposed to any partial withdrawal of U.S. troops until at least 1976, when its next five-year economic plan is to end, President Chun Doo Hwan has declared that the continued presence of U.S. troops at the current level is vital to South Korea's security until this country becomes capable of defending itself.

Top Communist Leader Seized In Bangkok, Thais Announce

BANGKOK, July 8 (AP).—The Thai government announced today the capture of the highest-ranking Communist in Thailand and said that this had broken the back of the clandestine Communist movement here.

The announcement came only hours after the Thai government announced a full-scale military alert in Bangkok.

The arrest of the Communist party member was given as the reason for the military alert imposed on the capital but there were indications that a political crisis was brewing over new taxes.

Thailand's top policeman, Gen. Prasert Ruchirawong, told newsmen that the man, believed to be the most senior member of the Central Committee of the Thai Communist party, was captured in Bangkok on July 3.

He was identified as Prasert Ianchai, 55.

Gen. Prasert described him as the chief organizer and treasurer of the movement in Thailand, which has guerrilla units in about 20 Thai provinces.

Gen. Prasert said that the man used 13 cars in an elaborate attempt to try to shake off police investigators who had been tracking him since Aug. 31, 1967.

On that date Thai police and security forces rounded up 30 men, many of them Chinese, who were said to represent most of the Central Committee of the party.

Gen. Prasert said that Communist propaganda books, leaflets, instruction manuals, $2,500 in Thai currency and 15 pounds of gold bars worth about $10,000 were seized.

The British government therefore decided unilaterally to circulate the protest from Siravanna Phouma to the representatives in London of the 1969 conference.

The British message "deplored the fact that fighting in Laos is continuing."

It expressed regret "that there had been no positive response to the suggestion by the prime minister of Laos on April 6 for a cease-fire and withdrawal of all foreign troops, to be supervised by the international control commission throughout Laos."

The message asserted the belief "that the International Control Commission had a vital role to play in supervising the observance of any agreement to end fighting in Laos" and requested "all parties concerned to do everything in their power to bring about such an agreement and facilitate the work of the ICC in Laos."

The 1969 Geneva conference on Laos comprised the United States, Canada, India, Poland, Thailand, Burma, Cambodia, South Vietnam, France, China, the Soviet Union, Laos, North Vietnam and Britain.

Dutchman to See Pope on Celibacy

ROME, July 8 (NYT).—Bernard Jan Cardinal Alfrink, Roman Catholic primate of the Netherlands, arrived today for talks with Pope Paul VI on clerical celibacy.

A spokesman for the Dutch cardinal said the pontiff had invited him to Rome to examine how to apply principles on celibacy set forth by Pope Paul in a pronouncement last February.

The papal document, a letter to Jean Cardinal Villot, the Vatican's secretary of state, called on the Dutch hierarchy and clergy to reconsider their demands for married priests in the church.

Letter was prompted by Pope Paul's intent in which the Dutch episcopacy jointly and unanimously backed a resolution by the Dutch Pastoral Council which includes clergy and laymen, requesting abolition of compulsory celibacy for priests.

Bombs Hit Missile, Consulate in N.Y.

NEW YORK, July 8 (UPI).—Mystery bombers struck twice in the city yesterday, setting off home-made devices at the Haitian Consulate General in midtown Manhattan and the missile display in Flushing Meadow Park.

Three persons at the consulate received cuts from flying glass and superficial burns from bomb flames, police reported.

FAUCHON

25 Place de la Madeleine at the liquor department BACARDI RUM

at the Boutique Only the best perfumes Here's one house we know we can count on 100%

Temple Flaming

$50 Million in Military Aid For Cambodia Drafted by U.S.

By Hedrick Smith

WASHINGTON, July 8 (NYT).—Vietnam in the new fiscal year, the Nixon administration is still being worked out.

The Nixon administration is still being worked out. In the fiscal year just ended, military aid program for Cambodia, July 1, the aid program administered through the Agency for International Development (AID) came to about $365 million.

The withdrawal of U.S. troops against Communist forces. Such a program would be in keeping with the administration's declared interest in helping the Cambodian government with aid and by encouraging other Asian powers to assist it, but without a direct American military commitment to its survival.

Official sources said that the White House has not given final approval to a specific aid package but explained that the amount is but expected to be several times larger than the $7.9 million in small arms and other military equipment shipped to Cambodia, or approved for shipment, earlier this year.

They said that interagency planning for new military aid to Cambodia anticipates a package of $50 million, roughly what the White House is said to believe Congress will approve.

Because of sensitivities on Capitol Hill, officials emphasized that American military aid to the Cambodian regime would have to be restricted to small arms, jeeps, trucks, communications equipment, uniforms, tents and similar light equipment.

Source of Funds

It is not clear whether the entire package will be part of the United States worldwide military aid programs, requiring congressional approval, or whether some of it will be underwritten by general contingency funds which the President can use at his discretion.

The amendment to the foreign military sales bill adopted by the Senate on June 30, though not approved yet by the House, would forbid the President from retaining American forces in Cambodia, sending American military advisers there, providing combat support for Cambodian forces, or using American funds to finance advisers or troops from third countries for Cambodia without congressional approval. But it does not forbid American military assistance programs to that country.

Officials said, however, that the Cambodians are expected to be turned down for request for some heavy military equipment such as helicopters, tactical jet fighters, naval patrol craft, and artillery pieces. These were all part of the $500 million in military aid requested by Lon Nol in a message to President Nixon April 26.

Economic Aid, Too

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—The Nixon administration said yesterday that the size of the U.S. economic aid program for South

Washington, July 8 (Reuters).—Japan said today that the United States gave an undertaking about the early removal of dead bodies from the island of Okinawa—due to be returned to Japan in 1972.

The issue of the gas, stored at U.S. bases on Okinawa, came up in talks this morning between Mr. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Ichiro Aichi.

Mr. Aichi told reporters Mr. Rogers promised the Nixon administration will do everything possible to arrange early removal of the gas.

The Japanese minister said Mr. Rogers, here on a three-day visit for talks with Japanese government leaders and U.S. envoys from Pacific and Asia, mentioned Johnston Island, in the west Pacific as a possible destination for the gas.

Nerve Gas

TOKYO, July 8 (Reuters).—Japan said today that the United States gave an undertaking about the early removal of dead bodies from the island of Okinawa—due to be returned to Japan in 1972.

The issue of the gas, stored at U.S. bases on Okinawa, came up in talks this morning between Mr. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Ichiro Aichi.

Mr. Aichi told reporters Mr. Rogers promised the Nixon administration will do everything possible to arrange early removal of the gas.

The Japanese minister said Mr. Rogers, here on a three-day visit for talks with Japanese government leaders and U.S. envoys from Pacific and Asia, mentioned Johnston Island, in the west Pacific as a possible destination for the gas.

Nerve Gas

TOKYO, July 8 (Reuters).—Japan said today that the United States gave an undertaking about the early removal of dead bodies from the island of Okinawa—due to be returned to Japan in 1972.

The issue of the gas, stored at U.S. bases on Okinawa, came up in talks this morning between Mr. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Ichiro Aichi.

Mr. Aichi told reporters Mr. Rogers promised the Nixon administration will do everything possible to arrange early removal of the gas.

The Japanese minister said Mr. Rogers, here on a three-day visit for talks with Japanese government leaders and U.S. envoys from Pacific and Asia, mentioned Johnston Island, in the west Pacific as a possible destination for the gas.

Nerve Gas

TOKYO, July 8 (Reuters).—Japan said today that the United States gave an undertaking about the early removal of dead bodies from the island of Okinawa—due to be returned to Japan in 1972.

The issue of the gas, stored at U.S. bases on Okinawa, came up in talks this morning between Mr. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Ichiro Aichi.

Mr. Aichi told reporters Mr. Rogers promised the Nixon administration will do everything possible to arrange early removal of the gas.

The Japanese minister said Mr. Rogers, here on a three-day visit for talks with Japanese government leaders and U.S. envoys from Pacific and Asia, mentioned Johnston Island, in the west Pacific as a possible destination for the gas.

Nerve Gas

TOKYO, July 8 (Reuters).—Japan said today that the United States gave an undertaking about the early removal of dead bodies from the island of Okinawa—due to be returned to Japan in 1972.

The issue of the gas, stored at U.S. bases on Okinawa, came up in talks this morning between Mr. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Ichiro Aichi.

Mr. Aichi told reporters Mr. Rogers promised the Nixon administration will do everything possible to arrange early removal of the gas.

The Japanese minister said Mr. Rogers, here on a three-day visit for talks with Japanese government leaders and U.S. envoys from Pacific and Asia, mentioned Johnston Island, in the west Pacific as a possible destination for the gas.

GEORG JENSEN SILVER

ORDERS OVER $100 CAN BE SHIPPED DANISH EXPORT PRICES

GEORG JENSEN
239 RUE SAINT-HONORE
PARIS-1er

LA BOUTIQUE DANOISE
42 AVENUE DE FRIEDLAND
PARIS-8e

GEORG JENSEN
15 NEW BOND STREET
LONDON W.1

GEORG JENSEN
101 R. RUE ROYALE, BRUSSELS 1

CASA DANESA GEORG JENSEN
87 VIA FRANCESCO CRISPI, ROMA

Casino

D'Enghien

come and see the famous casino on the lake 6 miles north of Paris theatre grand hotel des bains****

restaurants park

thermal swimming-pool

establishment. the only select gambling club near Paris

where ladies are admitted

phone 964 08-60

HOTEL EARLYLE

35 stories of luxurious accommodations. Convenient to shopping, art galleries and museums, theatres and business. Three fine restaurants.

MANHATTAN AVENUE AT 26TH ST. NEW YORK

CABLE TELEPHONE NEW YORK TELEPHONE 6-0822

CAR TOURS IN EUROPE

Clients picking up Renault Cars in Paris

Phone 644 65 80

FAUCHON

25 Place de la Madeleine at the liquor department BACARDI RUM

at the Boutique Only the best perfumes Here's one house we know we can count on 100%

Temple Flaming

AAA CAR TOURS TICKETS

PARIS: 15 Rue de la Paix. Tel: 673-33-66

LONDON: 25 Grosvenor St. Tel: 01-483-22-34

ROME: 84 V. Vittoria Veneto. Tel: 476022

CHUNN

Perfumes

Unusual 444s, 444s, 444s, 444s

Genuine 444s, 444s, 444s, 444s

444s, 444s, 444s, 444s

444s, 444s, 444s, 444s

DEATH NOTICE

MANOIR WINTERBORN FORBES on July 7, 1970, at the age of 82, after a long illness, died peacefully at her home in Britton, where she had maintained a happy home for her 11 children, 20 grandchildren, and an increasing number of great-grandchildren of many localities of names (see obituary in Boston) widow of the late James Forb.

Says Nixon Leadership Fails

Ex-Attorney General Clark Prods Congress on Integration

By Peter Milms

WASHINGTON, July 8 (WP)—Always be allies to the mainstream of American experience," Ex-Attorney General Ramsey Clark, criticizing President Nixon, urged Congress yesterday to outlaw all school segregation, North as well as South.

"We must quit this petty and endless tinkering with school desegregation," he testified before the Senate Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity. "Our character and our survival depend on it."

Mr. Clark, attorney general in the last two years of the Johnson administration, said that in 1968 it seemed that integration was really winning.

But in the 18 months of the Nixon administration, he said, there has been "much encouragement of old and harmful emotions."

Mr. Clark contended that in the South two years ago, there was real acceptance, resignation, to end desegregation. By contrast, he said, "my reading of the South is that it is a very turbulent place right now." He has a private law practice in Washington.

Nixon Urges New Deal for U.S. Indians

By Ken W. Clawson

WASHINGTON, July 8 (WP)—President Nixon urged Congress today to enact legislation that would give American Indians more dependence and yet retain their historic relationship as wards of a federal government.

Describing Indians as "America's neglected minority group," Nixon proposed legislation that would enable any Indian community to vote to take over the control or operation of federally aided and administered Indian programs in the departments of Interior, Health, Education and Welfare.

He specifically repudiated the policy of eventually ending federal responsibility for Indians and urged Congress to follow his lead. Mr. Nixon said that as recently as August, 1969, Congress declared that termination of federal responsibility for assimilation of Indians were a long-range goal of its Indian policy.

For Less Federalism
At the President also rejected the idea of less federalism toward Indians. He pointed out that most Indian programs already are run by the federal government. In the Interior Department, for example, only 15 percent of these programs are run by Indians. At HEW, 24 percent of Indian health programs are run by Indians.

There are currently 462,000 Indians living on reservations, with estimated equal number spread throughout the nation, most of them in urban centers. Under the policy outlined in Mr. Nixon's special message to Congress today, any tribe or group of Indians may vote to assume all or part of the administration of Indian or HEW-controlled programs. The agency administering a program assumed by a local Indian group could not veto the transfer of the program. But the federal government would provide technical assistance to the local group carrying on the programs.

Off Reservations
To aid Indians who have left reservations, Mr. Nixon proposed established Indian urban centers in Los Angeles, Denver, Phoenix, Omaha and expanding existing centers in Minneapolis and Fairbanks, Alaska.

The President said the goal of the national Indian policy is "to strengthen the Indian sense of community without threatening his use of community. . . . We must use it clear that Indians can come independent of federal control without being cut off from federal concern and federal support."

He specifically urged that Indian groups take control of education, saying: "One of the saddest aspects of Indian life is the low level of education. Dropouts among Indians are twice the national average, and the average educational level of Indians is less in six school years, Mr. Nixon said."

FREDDY
PERFUMES
GLOVES — BAGS — GIFTS
10 RUE AUBER, PARIS
SPECIAL EXPORT DISCOUNT
Phone 215-74-15

HOME AGAIN—A group of American students arrives at Kennedy Airport in New York after their study tour of Europe was cut short by a travel agency bankruptcy. The flight, from Geneva, carried 183 of the 3,500 students affected by the event.

Performance Gap Seen

O'Brien Attacks Nixon Record As Democrats Obtain TV Time

By John W. Finney

WASHINGTON, July 8 (NYT)—The Democratic National Committee, opening a novel television assault on President Nixon, laid down the political theme last night that the Republican administration was developing a "performance gap" between its promises and its deeds.

The House bill empowers the House to conduct a "performance gap" investigation into any activity deemed by the director to be detrimental to the best interest of the United States.

Twelve senators introduced legislation to end the draft and establish an all-volunteer military by mid-1971, as recommended by a presidential commission.

The principal sponsor, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R. Ore., said the proposal "is feasible regardless of the manpower requirements for Vietnam."

The Nixon administration and the nation's governors opposed a House-passed measure that would give priority for federal crime-fighting funds to high-crime areas.

Witness Says Aide On Phone Called Self 'McCormack'

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—A contractor testified today at the trial of Martin Swig, suspended chief aide to House Speaker John McCormack, D. Mass., that he had heard Mr. Swig on several occasions say on the phone, "This is Speaker McCormack."

Peter Bratt, president of a contracting firm bearing his name, was called by the government as a rebuttal witness as the influence-peddling trial in U.S. District Court neared its end after three weeks.

Although the defense rested its case Monday without putting Mr. Swig on the stand, Mr. Swig's lawyer, Paul T. Smith, has contended during the trial that neither Mr. Swig nor lobbyist Nathan Voloshen ever impersonated Rep. McCormack on the phone.

Mr. Swig, 48, was indicted for conspiring with Mr. Voloshen, 70, a long-time friend of Rep. McCormack, to use the prestige of Mr. Voloshen's clients, and for lying about it to a grand jury.

Mr. Bratt said he had known both Mr. Voloshen and Mr. Swig for more than 12 years, and that he visited the Speaker's office regularly every two or three weeks.

Millionaire's Wife To Stand Trial For His Murder

FRESNO, Calif., July 8 (AP)—Slender, long-haired Louise Baileigh Thoresen has been ordered to stand trial in Fresno Superior Court on a charge of murdering her millionaire husband.

Municipal Court Judge James V. Walton set trial for July 27 and returned Mrs. Thoresen to the county jail without bail.

She also faces a charge of possession of marijuana. A 34-year-old former speech therapist, she is accused of shooting William E. Thoresen 2d five times in the back June 10. Mr. Thoresen, son of the president of Chicago's Great Western Steel Co., was found dead in bed in a second-story bedroom of the couple's Fresno home.

Testimony during the hearing revealed Mrs. Thoresen had numerous bruises on both arms and legs, two fractured ribs and a half-inch-deep puncture wound. Records stated that when booked into county jail she had been treated at a hospital for a punctured eardrum.

Stranded U.S. Students Are Flying Home

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—A group of 183 students whose summer study tour of Europe had been cut short by a tour-agency bankruptcy arrived at Kennedy Airport last night on a chartered airliner from Geneva.

"We were supposed to tour seven countries, but we only saw Italy and Switzerland," said Debbie Monk, 16. "We left on June 25 and were supposed to return Aug. 2."

The students were among 3,500 disappointed young Americans who had their study vacations cut short. Group leaders were high in their praise for the manner in which the students accepted the news of the shortened tour.

Sister Grace Vincent said some of the ten college students she escorted worked for two summers to pay their way on the tour.

"I really think the government should make an investigation," she said.

Few Smiles
There was hardly a smile as the students stepped from a World Airways jetliner.

A spokesman for the airline said about 900 youths are being flown home on charter flights from Europe.

Miss Monk said she and her group of 45 students were advised of their misfortune yesterday morning at St. Cergue, in Switzerland.

She said some of the students arrived from Rome, and many had to sleep on the floor of the hotel in which they were staying.

The group which arrived yesterday, airline officials said, was part of a larger group of 3,500 tour members being ferried back to the United States.

Bankruptcy Flee
World Academy Inc., which arranged the trips, has filed bankruptcy petitions in Federal Court, Cincinnati, along with four of its subsidiaries. They are World Academy Schools for Foreign Studies, the Institute for Cultural Education, the International School for Young Americans and Travel-Rite Inc.

The Provident Bank of Cincinnati, saying the scope of the situation is too great, declined yesterday to become receiver in bankruptcy for the companies.

"This means that we'll have to start over again as far as the bankruptcy agreement is concerned, but we have the student problem in hand," said Lawrence Kane Jr., attorney for World Academy.

Mr. Kane said the U.S. District Court in Cincinnati will act as receiver until one is found to replace the bank.

$5,000 Available
Meanwhile, Mr. Kane said, the court has permitted a company representative to take $5,000 to Europe and "the students have room and board now." He said the students' air fares had been paid, but not their food or lodging.

More flights from Paris, Amsterdam and Bonn-Cologne were expected early tomorrow.

Daily News Price Up
NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—The New York Daily News will increase today its newsstand price on weekdays from eight cents to 10 cents, effective tomorrow. The Sunday price will remain at 25 cents. The increase follows a five-cent rise to 15 cents by the weekday editions of the Post and the Times.

MICHEL SWISS
PERFUMES - GLOVES
BAGS - TIES - GIFTS
SPECIAL SERVICE - DISCOUNT
16 Rue de la Paix - PARIS
Tel. 022 22-22

NASA May Cancel Some Apollo Flights

Unused Rockets Eyed For Space Station

By Thomas O'Toole

WASHINGTON, July 8 (WP)—The space agency is considering the cancellation of three of its six remaining Apollo moon landings so it can use the Saturn-5 moon rockets to put a six-man space station in earth orbit in the mid-seventies.

No firm decision has been made to kill any of the six moon landings, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has undertaken a top-priority study to see if it might be feasible to cancel one, two, three or even four of the landings to divert funds into what it calls an "intermediate" space station that could be launched in 1976.

"This is a reconsideration purely on fiscal grounds," a space agency spokesman said today. "We want to see if we can build a six-man space station that could fly in six years without any changes in our present funding level."

One report had it that the whole idea of the 1976 space station was to use it as a means of celebrating the 200th anniversary of the republic, but a space agency source dismissed that notion completely.

"That report was the result of a facetious remark in a headquarters meeting last week," the source said. "If we do in fact get a space station in earth orbit in 1976 it will be purely coincidental with the country's 200th birthday."

While NASA could cancel as many as four of the remaining Apollo moon flights, the most serious plan afoot right now is to cancel no more than three.

Apollo-15 First on List
The landings most likely to be ditched are Apollo-15, 18 and 19. Apollo-15 is now scheduled for next summer, Apollo-18 for late 1973 and Apollo-19 for the middle of 1974.

Apollo-15 is most vulnerable, since it would fly just after Apollo-14 lands in the moon's Mare Mauro Hills (a top priority landing site) and just before Apollo-16 carries the first jeep-like lunar rover to transport astronauts over the moon's surface.

Dropping Apollo-15 would free a Saturn-5 rocket for use either in the Skylab program or in a program to follow Skylab in earth orbit.

The way things stand now, the three-man Skylab station is to be put into earth orbit by a Saturn-5 rocket in 1972 and visited by three separate crews in 1972 and 1973 who will live and work in Skylab for as long as 56 days.

If the agency drops Apollo-18 and 19, the two rockets that would have been used on these flights could be used to launch a second Skylab in 1974 and a larger version in 1976.

The larger Skylab would have room for six men and could be visited by Apollo spacecraft carrying three men at a time on the wings of the smaller Saturn-1B rockets. There are eight of these in the nation's stockpile at the moment.

Two things stand in the way of the plan to cancel some of the remaining moon flights. One is the attitude of the scientific community, which right now believes the Apollo program is more important than a space station. The second is the 50-man astronaut corps, which views landing on the moon as a far more rewarding goal than long flights in earth orbit.

Bottled Preserve
PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, July 8 (AP)—A sign in a liquor store window reads: "Preserve wild life. Throw a party."

2 Soviet Scientists Cite Evidence That Asians Discovered Americas

MOSCOW, July 8 (Reuters)—Two Leningrad specialists in Oriental antiquity have produced a theory that ancient Asian geographers knew of the existence of the Americas at least 1,500 years before the birth of Christ. Tass news agency reported yesterday.

The specialists, Lev Gumilev and Bronislav Kuznetsov, base their hypothesis on the deciphering of ancient maps of the world in old Tibetan books, Tass said.

The arrangement of countries and continents on the maps conformed with the knowledge of the world of the ancient Sumerians and Chaldeans, the earliest geographers.

The Soviet specialists concluded that the data contained in the map was known in Asia in the second millennium B.C.

"The honor of discovery of the Americas possibly belongs to ancient Asian travelers," Tass declared.

The agency said that the ancient Tibetan maps were known to Orientalists before, but were believed to be charts of imaginary lands of fantasy or mystical Buddhist tales.

2d GI Sentenced For Crime Spree In 3 Countries

FRANKFURT, West Germany, July 8 (AP)—A U.S. Army court-martial today sentenced Pvt. Alvin Ambers, 21, of Taylor County, Ky., to life in prison for a crime spree in West Germany and France that included the slaying of a night watchman in Tarbes, France.

Ambers pleaded guilty to a variety of charges that included unpremeditated murder, house breaking, larceny, car theft, robbery and desertion.

His companion, Spec. Richard Snyder, 20, of Horton, Kans., was given a ten-year sentence by a military court yesterday after conviction of being an accessory in the shooting of Gilbert Desmots, night watchman at a Tarbes factory, last Nov. 28.

The killing occurred during a crime-studded jaunt that took them from their barracks in Worms, Germany, through France and into Spain and back.

Ambers and Snyder were charged with breaking into a post office and gun club where they stole pistols and ammunition.

Joined by Snyder's German girl friend, Darthea Hammer, 18, they stole a car and drove to France. The girl is awaiting trial by German authorities.

Live Wire Kills 4
MESSINA, Sicily, July 8 (Reuters)—Four workmen were killed and four seriously injured when a live high-tension power cable snapped and fell to the ground. The city's overhead railway system went up by five cents to 45 cents after the state legislature refused to dole out emergency funds to keep the authority in business.

Chicago Buses, El Raise Fare to 45 Cents

CHICAGO, July 8 (Reuters)—More than 1,500,000 commuters dug deeper in their pockets today when the Chicago Transit Authority raised bus and train fares in an attempt to stave off bankruptcy.

The basic fare on buses and the city's overhead railway system went up by five cents to 45 cents after the state legislature refused to dole out emergency funds to keep the authority in business.

not on sale in the U.S. until fall

CARON paris

AN ANNOUNCEMENT FROM
FENDI
HIGH-FASHION FURS

(Member of the National Chamber of Italian Fashion)

The annual presentation of our 1970/71 high-fashion collection will take place on Saturday, July 11, at 5 p.m.

in their own atelier

Via Borgognona 39, Rome.

FOR INFORMATION PLEASE PHONE: PRESS OFFICE ROME 687-641, 2, 3, 4.

Longlegs! Fly TWA's 747.

31st Down—How Many to Go?

The center-left government of Premier Mariano Rumor, Rome's 31st since World War II, took office only three months ago after a seven-week crisis, the longest since 1945. Its resignation and the increasing frequency and duration of political crises in Italy—the current one is the fifth in two years—stem from factional feuding within the governing Christian Democratic and Socialist parties over two inter-related issues: social reform and cooperation with the Communists.

The political and social malaise that afflicts Italy is a variant of the "revolution of rising expectations." The more highly paid skilled workers of the north and the peasants in some of the country's richest farm areas vote Communist as a protest. They seek a greater share of the nation's growing wealth. Inflation, bureaucratic inefficiency and archaic social, governmental and educational institutions have stirred protests by other groups, including students, civil servants, intellectuals, veterans and the aged.

A root cause paradoxically is Italy's economic "miracle" of the past decade, which has seen an extraordinary expansion of industry and trade. Millions of peasants—and automobiles—have flooded into the bulging cities of central and northern Italy. Insufficient housing, schools, hospitals, urban transit, commuter networks, social services—and colossal traffic jams—have been the result.

A vigorous, united government would have difficulty surmounting such problems, and the center-left coalition that has governed Italy most of the time since 1962 is neither. The Christian Democratic party, with almost 38 percent of the vote, is split into nine identifiable factions. Four or five rival groups struggle within the two Socialist parties. The political views of these factions range from far right to far left.

In these circumstances, leftist Christian Democrats and Socialists have been tempted to accept—or to threaten to accept—Communist support in parliament to overcome the blocking vote of conservative Christian Democratic factions. A break-up of the Christian Democratic party might be the result, but the temptation has increased as the cold war has faded, as the political influence of the Catholic Church has declined, and as the Communists have sought "respectability."

In local government in some areas, left Socialist cooperation with the Communists has continued in the pre-1963 pattern. But the decision of the Socialists to extend this cooperation to two of Italy's 15 new regional councils, a higher level of government, has now precipitated a showdown. A moderate bloc of Christian Democrats, supported by the Social Democrats, evidently convinced Rumor to resign. Theoretically, this forces left Socialists to choose either participation in the national center-left government or cooperation with the Communists in the regional councils.

In the present parliament, the only majority that is both arithmetically and politically possible is one that includes both the Christian Democrats and the Socialists. New elections, three years before they are due, might alter that; but with or without new elections, a patchwork solution that would continue some form of center-left rule is the most likely outcome of the prolonged crisis that now probably lies ahead.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Agnew of Red Gap

The USIA's investment of $80,000 in a split-screen color film about Spiro T. Agnew for overseas audiences was doubtless justified both by world interest and by the need to explain the Vice-President to puzzled friends of this country abroad. The United States has few public relations problems of greater magnitude.

Not surprisingly, the film presents none of the criticism of Agnew by American intellectuals, liberals, the news media and just plain Democrats. But it does include some of Agnew's slashing attacks on the liberals and the intellectuals as "an effete corps of impudent snobs," thereby enhancing the American image from Afghanistan to Zambia.

The USIA film on President Eisenhower cost only $25,000. While there are many reasons why Agnew's film cost three times as much as Eisenhower's, it is still true that the less dark the subject, the less the whitewash required.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

International Opinion

Middle East

The U.S.S.R. is in an impasse. Washington is getting worried by Israeli Air Force losses and reportedly made it known to Moscow that any challenge to the status quo would be intolerable. Egyptian public opinion is now convinced that time has come to resume the offensive in Sinai. The prolongation of Nasser's visit to Moscow appears to originate from the difficulty of finding a common tactic.

—From Combat (Paris).

From his comments on the complexities of inter-Arab rivalries and the Middle East's economic and strategic importance, and the naive statement that "the Russians seem to have an interest in moving into the Mediterranean," President Nixon appears only just to have turned his concentration on the Middle East. His statements on Vietnam sound like attempts to free his hand more to pursue this new interest. The interview (on network television) is in contrast with the discreet efforts by U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers to interest all parties in his latest proposals. They have not yet been revealed in official detail, but they appear to be receiving more consideration than any of their predecessors. At the same time the U.S.S.R. has put forward new, and reportedly more flexible, ideas about peace negotiations. President Nixon rightly welcomed efforts "to cool it in the Middle East." But his awareness of the need for urgent action comes none too soon.

—From the Guardian (London).

Troubled Ulster

The leaders of the Orange Order have shown their intransigence by rejecting Mr. Maudling's appeal yesterday to cancel their parades next weekend.

There was probably never much chance that they would agree but hopes of their doing so faded after the Hillery incident.

It is one further proof of that vicious circle in Irish affairs. A provocative act in any part stimulates a counter-provocation somewhere else.

The shadow of the weekend now hangs heavy over Ulster.

—From the Times (London).

Pompidou-Brandt

These two days of conversations thus resulted in some harmonizing of French and German positions concerning the West German Eastern policy. . . . But the Franco-German talks have been rather disappointing in the field of bilateral cooperation. . . . The concrete results at the end of this meeting are thin.

—From Le Figaro (Paris).

Bonn obviously goes farther than Paris [in rapprochement with the East]. . . . But how far can it go? One senses that the Kremlin sooner or later might suggest more precisely to its West German partners—perhaps to Mr. Scheel in late July—that they should get out of NATO, as France did. The first reaction of Bonn could hardly be a positive one. Is this the reason why the Germans suddenly brought up the question of European defense under the nuclear angle in connection with common diplomacy within the framework of the future political union?

—From Les Echos (Paris).

Arms for South Africa

Undoubtedly the happiest outcome would be the discovery that it is not vital to provide South Africa even with arms suitable for repelling external aggression. If the government decides it must sell some, it must ensure that it sells only the minimum and that the Commonwealth knows it is the minimum. Meanwhile there can be no objection to a defense review.

—From the Times (London).

In the International Edition

Seventy-Five Years Ago

July 9, 1895
PARIS—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday passed a resolution important in itself and which may be a possible point de départ for other resolutions of a similar character. On the proposition of M. Barodet it was resolved: "That the Chamber invites the Government to constitute a permanent court of arbitration between the French Republic and the Republic of the United States."

Fifty Years Ago

July 9, 1920
WARSAW—The danger to Poland daily grows more serious. In view of the important successes gained by the Bolsheviks on the whole front from the Dvina in the north to Rovno in the south. Rovno itself has been captured and the Reds here at length crossed the Berezina in face of the stubborn Polish resistance. The Poles are making a great patriotic effort to stem the invasion.

More Very Bad News

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—Day by day, the ugly facts come in from the Suez front. Each new fact puts Soviet intentions in the Middle East in an ever-darkening light. And each new fact means deeper and deeper peril for beleaguered Israel.

In this space last week, the first full report was given on the radically improved Soviet SAM-2 missiles, which are responsible for the tiny Israeli Air Force's hitherto unprecedented losses of Phantom fighter-bombers. It now appears, however, that this first report was sadly incomplete.

In the combat zone along the Suez Canal, the Israelis are fighting for their lives and national future. They must now face, not just the vastly more effective new-model SAM-2s, but an entire, carefully combined weapons system. And the new system obviously includes Soviet SAM-3 missiles manned by Russian troops.

The first component of the weapons system is an immensely dense deployment of anti-aircraft guns and other anti-aircraft weapons. These cover a strip along the entire Suez Canal and about fifteen miles inland. And the deployment has been strengthened by another new Soviet missile, the Russian version of the American Redeye, which is a light ground-to-air weapon with an efficient target-seeking device.

2 Lines of SAMs

The second component of the weapons system is the line of SAM-2 missiles, emplaced on a line about fifteen miles inland from the canal bank. With their twenty-mile range, these improved SAM-2s are effective up to the canal itself. Thus any Israeli pilot, going in low to attack a target in the combat zone, meets the fiercest sort of anti-aircraft fire; and if the pilot goes in at high altitude, he is met with salvoes of SAM-2s.

As to the weapons system's third component, it consists of at least two and probably three emplacements of SAM-3 missiles, complete with Russian crews as noted above. These have now been moved far forward from their former positions deep in the interior of Egypt, to new positions just outside the official combat zone. Here the SAM-3s can be used to support and protect the line of SAM-2s.

In a very real sense, therefore, Russian troops are already actively engaged in the great battle for control of the air over the combat zone along the canal. Yet even that is by no means the end of this grim story.

The evidence, albeit incomplete, is already clear that the entire vast weapons system above-described is now under direct Soviet control. The responses to the warnings of the radar; the management of the electronic countermeasures (and counter-countermeasures); the orchestration of the missile salvoes and anti-aircraft fire—all these are now Soviet responsibilities in the vital canal-side strip, where the Egyptians were so recently alleged to be strictly on their own.

The effects to date, furthermore, have been desperately grave for the Israelis. The great majority of their aircraft—their supersonic Mirages, and their workhorse American Skyhawks, and naturally their wholly obsolete Mysteres, Vautours and Ouragans—can no longer be used to attack targets much beyond the bank of the Suez Canal itself.

Only the Phantoms

Before the new weapons system was installed, these other planes ranged quite freely over the whole combat zone. Now, however, only the Israeli Phantoms can be used to attack targets at any distance from the canal. And considering the tiny stock of Phantoms that Israel possesses, three Phantoms downed in a single week add up to a cruelly heavy rate of loss.

By shining courage and superb efficiency, the Phantoms' fliers have scored some successes. Three or four of the SAM-2 emplacements have been so heavily damaged that they have been put out of action, at any rate for a while. This has further meant painful losses for both the Egyptians and the Russians, who are also present at the SAM-2 sites as "advisers," but in extra-heavy numbers. (The Russian dead, by the way, are sent home for burial marked "killed in a motor accident.")

Even so, the situation is plainly reaching the stage of acute crisis, with Israel's whole future ultimately at stake. Equally critical, moreover—and for President Nixon as well as for Israel—are the time factors.

The new weapons system was obviously put in along the Suez front to coincide with Gamal Abdel Nasser's long visit to the Soviet Union. He and his Soviet masters are now assessing the first combat results; and above all they are assessing the U.S. response to this further Soviet move forward. And God knows what the next move forward may be, if further dithering is the only real U.S. response!

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Acceptance by Egypt of the key to success of the new American plan for renewal of the Middle East peace mission of UN representative Gunnar Jarring.

Only if Egypt agrees to the proposal for a three-month reinstatement of the cease-fire, it is believed, will the United States be in a position to put real pressure on Israel to state its intention to withdraw from occupied Arab territories.

Initial Egyptian reaction here is said to be favorable. But a considered formal response probably awaits the completion of Egyptian-Soviet talks in Moscow.

The American initiative is viewed here as more complementary than contrary to the Soviet formulations disclosed last week. These would take effect upon completion of the undefined first stage of Israeli withdrawal and contemplate ultimate Arab declarations of a state of peace with Israel to be registered with the UN.

Soviet Plan First

The Soviet plan was first broached in Washington on June 2. The U.S. plan, which presumably reflected knowledge of the Soviet approach, was not disclosed until June 25.

As a preliminary to the Jarring mission, the U.S. effort calls upon the parties to the Middle East conflict to affirm their acceptance of the Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1947, and their intention to carry out its provisions, which constitute settlement guidelines.

Apart from the initially favorable Egyptian reaction, several other Arab delegations have welcomed the U.S. initiative. A Western ambassador has reported, Syria, however, has opposed it, while Jordan has appeared to be noncommittal.

Although the Russians have not commented publicly, they have been careful not to condemn the U.S. plan officially. Several Western diplomats have said that there are indications that the Russians for the first time really want a Middle East settlement as distinguished from controlled tension.

These diplomats agreed that the increasing strength of the Palestinian commandos is a major factor in the Soviet attitude. Moscow re-

Blue Collar Blues Threaten Trouble

By Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON—Anybody who doubts the dire condition of American politics should take a look at the report just presented to President Nixon on blue collar workers. For the report shows that a large slice of the electorate is suffering the misery that comes with being on a social escalator that has stopped moving upwards.

It further shows—unwillingly—that there are no good ways to remedy this difficulty. And that means that unless all of us are careful about pushing our claims, the country is going to go agog with demagogic appeals to the lower middle class.

The blue collar study was undertaken by the Labor Department at the direction of the House. It focused on blue collar workers and their families living on annual incomes of between $5,000 and $10,000. That is a group of 20 million strong, comprising about 40 percent of the electorate.

The chief finding of the study is that blue collar work has a "dead end" quality. Salary scales that are attractive at the beginning, and rise fairly quickly with the acquisition of new skills, level off towards middle age. Expenditure requirements, which are fairly relaxed in the early years of the job, mount steeply in the middle years because of family demands for housing, cars and education. In many cases, as a result, blue collar workers finish off a lifetime of hard work worse off than when they started.

Prime Evidence

As prime evidence the report presents a profile of earnings and budget costs for a typical steel worker. According to the study, the average steel worker can expect to make more money than he needs to spend when he is single and twenty-two, when he is married and twenty-three, and when he is married with a wife and single child under six.

But by 35 years of age, with two children between six and fifteen, he is slightly in the hole. When he crosses 40 and has two children between 16 and 18, he has to spend 25 percent more than he earns every year. He can make ends meet only by drawing down savings, moonlighting, or having a working wife.

The psychological consequences of this treadmill existence are not in doubt. There is bred among workers of various ages a sense of having worked hard for illusory gains, of having been conned or gyped. There is a predisposition to resent those who get special government help—particularly poor blacks. It is even easier to resent those whose incomes keep rising thanks to the good fortune of higher education.

The political consequences are equally clear. The basic tie of economic interest that bound working class America to the Democratic party of the New Deal has progressively come unstuck. Now this group—the group which I have called Middle America—is up for grabs and the stakes are tremendous. Who wins the support of Middle America dominates American politics.

No Good Recipes

Unfortunately, there are no good recipes for winning this support. The Democratic recipe still emphasizes full employment and economic growth. But that appeal only works when the country has the economic wind. And under a liberal Democratic administration on aid to blacks and on catering to student opinion on such matters as Vietnam, drugs and crime, they antagonize lower middle class voters.

A liberal Republican appeal to the lower middle class is outlined in the blue collar report. The report recommends to the President proposals that would give blue collar workers a better tax break, on-the-job educational opportunities, free child care for their youngsters, and educational subsidies for their older children.

But this is dull and pallid stuff. It compares not at all with the red meat served up by those who know how to play upon resentment of the blacks and the educated elite. The masters of that appeal—the Agnew, and Reagan, and Wallace—now hold the high ground in American politics.

What this means is that there is a true potential for trouble in the American polity, not just a tendency to squawk. For the time being at least, the trouble can only be averted by self-restraint. And the need for self-restraint does not apply only to political leaders tempted to exploit resentment. It applies, even more to the blacks who demand instant access to things others achieved only through years of toil. It applies especially to those who would rub the country's nose in a "superior" life style at odds with traditional values of morality and patriotism. For they are the ones who most inflame Middle America. And they have the most to lose if there is set in motion a new wave of folk malvolescence.

Peace Plan's Chances

By Robert H. Estabrook

portedly was very much shaken by events in Jordan last month in which King Hussein, very nearly lost control to the commandos.

Another factor in Soviet thinking is thought to be the wish to reopen the Suez Canal as a strategic link to the Indian Ocean and to Soviet bases in Yemen and Somalia.

No official Israeli comment on the U.S. initiative has been forthcoming beyond the comment of Prime Minister Golda Meir last week, casting doubt on any cease-fire that would permit Egypt to reinforce its deployment of Soviet missiles along the canal. The Israelis have stayed almost out of sight here since the Lebanese complaint in the Security Council early in May.

Presumably the United States anticipated Mrs. Meir's objection by emphasizing that if the renewal of the cease-fire should be agreed, no changes in the existing military situation would be tolerated.

By implication Washington has told the Israelis that, unless they accept the American plan, they may not receive more Phantom and Skyhawk aircraft and has told the Egyptians that, unless they agree, the United States may be compelled to grant more planes to Israel.

The United States took a calculated risk in short-circuiting the big four powers here by presenting its plan directly to the parties in their own capitals. Answers are expected in Washington rather than here.

The reasoning was that four-power discussions at best would have required weeks, while the need to relaunch the Jarring mission was urgent. Initially Washington hoped to get him back to the area by early July, although this is now acknowledged as unrealistic.

At first France was offended by the method. Paris originated the suggestion of the four-power talks and prefers a Big Four format for any Middle East effort. Britain I said to have reacted pragmatically.

UN officials have felt that Mr. Jarring would not resume his talks with the parties until the Big Four have given him more to work with by spelling out interpretations of the Security Council resolution. UN sources say that Secretary-General U Thant, now in Geneva, will not ask Mr. Jarring to come there but will talk to him in Sweden by telephone.

Lord Caradon, the British ambassador to the UN who resigned last month after the Conservative election victory, wrote in the London Sunday Times that Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik told him just before he left that the Russians were now ready to say what they mean by peace.

While some of that may come about in the four-power negotiations here, the Big Four discussion are expected to mirror rather than make any real agreement. Both Mr. Malik and American Ambassador Charles Yost are scheduled to be on vacation when the senior representatives meet next on July 15. No replacement for Lord Caradon has been named.

Roy Jenkins Deputy Head Of Laborites

Election May Mean
He's Heir to Wilson

By Anthony Lewis

LONDON, July 8 (NYT).—Roy Jenkins was elected deputy leader of the Labor party today. In the opinion of many he thus becomes Harold Wilson's heir presumptive.

It was a highly significant result for British politics in terms beyond the personal. For one thing, Mr. Jenkins's victory is a big boost for those—including Conservative Prime Minister Edward Heath—who want to see Britain in the Common Market.

Mr. Jenkins has for years been a (perhaps the) leading "European" in the Labor party, one who thinks Britain's future lies in the European Economic Community.

For that reason, elements in the party opposed to British membership in the EEC tried hard to block Mr. Jenkins's election. If they had succeeded, it would have been grim news for Mr. Heath, who needs all-party backing for Britain's application.

Moreover, the Jenkins victory shows that the political balance in the Labor party after its defeat in last month's election remains moderately right of center. Mr. Jenkins has always been regarded by the left as insufficiently "Socialist."

He won over two other candidates, in a secret paper ballot that closed today. The opponents were Michael Foot, a leading voice on the left wing, and Fred Peart, the former leader of the House and an opponent of EEC membership.

To win, Mr. Jenkins needed an absolute majority of the votes cast. Many thought he would fall short, and then lose in a second ballot. But he won easily. The vote was 133 for Mr. Jenkins, 67 for Mr. Foot and 48 for Mr. Peart.

Mr. Jenkins, 49, was chancellor of the Exchequer for the last two and a half years of the Labor government. Before going into the government he was a well known journalist and author of several books of political history and biography.

In the Labor party, he has been viewed with some suspicion as a not very early type. Though the son of a Welsh miner, he went to Balliol College, Oxford, and has the accents and personal interests of a nonworking-class intellectual.

2 Basque Priests Get 3-Year Jail Terms in Spain

BURGOS, Spain, July 8 (Reuters).—A Spanish military court last night sentenced two priests and two students to a total of 36 years imprisonment here for crimes ranging from sheltering terrorists to armed robbery.

Father Jose Maria Madariaga, curate of Bayvillo, and Father Francisco Bilbao, of Melaca—both Basque country dioceses—were each sentenced to three years in prison.

Father Madariaga was charged with harboring a member of the extremist Basque Nationalist Movement (ETA), who had escaped from prison last year.

He was convicted of military rebellion, a standard charge faced by ETA activists and sympathizers since military courts were given the task of stamping out the campaign for a separate Basque state in north Spain.

Father Bilbao was found guilty of distributing pamphlets containing illegal propaganda against the Spanish government.

One student received 30 years in jail, the second 20 years for terrorism and banditry.

Franco Inaugurates Dam on River Tagus

CACERES, Spain, July 8 (Reuters).—Generalissimo Francisco Franco yesterday inaugurated a giant dam which will harness the waters of the River Tagus to create the biggest artificial lake in Western Europe.

The dam, 1,800 feet wide and 450 feet high, will feed four groups of hydroelectric generators at its foot and form a lake 67 miles long, covering an area of 25,000 acres.

Even Bicycle Won't Pierce Traffic In Athens in 5 Years, Expert Says

ATHENS, July 8 (AP).—An American city planner, in an extensive report on traffic conditions in Athens, has given a frightening picture of a city in the future, choked with cars and traffic at a complete standstill.

Prof. Antonios Tomazinis of the University of Pennsylvania said that in five years' time "there won't even be enough room to move about, not even for bicycles." He foresaw a "wave of cars" stretching from the Greek capital to outlying suburbs.

Mr. Tomazinis's 48-day study on Greek traffic conditions was made for the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development.

"Driving from one suburb to the next, through Athens, will be impossible," he said, adding that as a result of the traffic tieup, "businesses, offices and other commercial enterprises will move out of the city and head for open spaces. This can result in Athens and the nearby port city, Piraeus, eventually becoming dead cities."

CHANGING COLORS—Old Glory, Texas, has not always been named for the U.S. flag. This predominantly German settlement was once named Brandenburg. But Brandenburgers decided to shed their Germanic image in 1917 and in a referendum voted the patriotic shift.

Obituaries

Sir Allen Lane Dies at 67, Founder of Penguin Books

LONDON, July 8 (NYT).—Sir Allen Lane, 67, founder and head of Penguin Books, died last night of cancer in Northwood, Middlesex.

Before Penguin Books was established, the bulk of paperback books were pulp novels. Sir Allen's idea of offering good titles at low prices influenced the reading habits of Britain and many other countries.

He was knighted in 1952 for his services to publishing.

Sir Allen started Penguin in 1935, when the publishing business here was in the doldrums. His own publishing concern, Bodley Head, was then on the verge of bankruptcy. He had joined Bodley, which was owned by his uncle, John Lane, in 1919. Six years later, on the death of his uncle, he became managing director.

Bodley Head was finding it difficult to compete with more aggressive publishing firms that had lists of established writers. With much of his own money, Sir Allen started Penguin Books and soon resigned from Bodley. The venture got off to a slow start but within 25 years he became a millionaire.

He sought 12 good books to start, and a sympathetic British publisher, Jonathan Cape, let him have ten, including works by Hemingway, Maupassant and Compton Mackenzie.

Demand for Penguins was slow at first until Woolworth's started selling them. After that, the bookshops, which had not been enthusiastic about stocking them, thought again. By 1937, more than 100 titles had been reprinted as Penguins; then came Penguin Specials and Penguin Classics—which confirmed his respect for learning and his business instinct that had gambled on mass demand for good books.

Dame Laura Knight

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Dame Laura Knight, 92, Britain's most famous 20th-century woman painter, whose canvases of circus and theater life were internationally known, died at her London home today.

Sir Allen Lane

Her career as an artist spanned 70 years. She was made a dame in 1926 for her services to art and became a member of the Royal Academy in 1939. She was the first woman to be elected to the academy since Angelica Kaufman and Mary Moser, who were founder members in 1769. A year later, her husband, Harold Knight, a portrait painter, was elected and they became the first husband and wife academicians. He died in 1961.

Charles Tobias

NEW YORK, July 8 (NYT).—Charles Tobias, 72, who with his brothers Harry and Henry wrote hundreds of songs for Broadway shows, films and individual singers, died yesterday of a liver ailment in Manhattan, L.I.

Among his songs were "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree," "If I Had My Life to Live Over," "Rose O'Day" and the war song "We Did It Before and We Can Do It Again."

Mr. Tobias began his career by writing parodies. He became a singer for music publishing firms and for several years appeared in vaudeville.

Mr. Tobias took about 15 minutes to write "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver." Peter De Rose played a new tune for Mr. Tobias at 2 a.m., and at 2:15 a.m. the title and chorus for the number were complete.

Francesco Petacci

ROME, July 8 (UPI).—Francesco Petacci, the father of Benito Mussolini's best known mistress, has died of a heart attack, the family announced today. His eldest daughter and second child, Claretta, who was Mussolini's mistress, was killed by Italian partisans in 1945 and her body was found in public alongside Mussolini's.

Sylvester Wiere

CANOGA PARK, Calif., July 8 (UPI).—Sylvester Wiere, a member of the internationally known Wiere Brothers comedy act, died here yesterday. Mr. Wiere, 60, was hospitalized after suffering a heart attack at the ranch he shared with his brother Herbert.

Speaks for Catholic Minority

Irish Official Rejects Rebuke By London Over Ulster Visit

By John M. Lee

LONDON, July 8 (NYT).—The Irish foreign minister, Patrick Hillery, tonight rejected official British criticism of his secret tour of a riot-torn Roman Catholic neighborhood in Belfast on Monday.

"I represent a sovereign state and will not be rebuked by anyone else," Mr. Hillery asserted at a press conference at the Irish Embassy near Buckingham Palace.

He spoke after a meeting with the British foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, who accused him yesterday of "serious diplomatic discourtesy" in visiting Northern Ireland, which is still a part of Britain, without consulting the British government.

Reflecting Dublin's long-standing claim to authority over all of Ireland, Mr. Hillery said at the embassy: "I regard myself as representative of any man living in Ireland, and I am entitled to visit any town and village."

However, he confined his representation today to the 500,000-strong Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland and said: "I speak for them today. At any time the minority needs to speak, I am available to them."

Asked whether he also spoke for Ulster's one million Protestant majority, Mr. Hillery said that they had "no cause for insecurity whatsoever."

Mr. Hillery had scheduled a visit with British officials today to discuss questions of the European Economic Community, when the British foreign secretary "invited" him for a meeting to discuss his controversial trip.

At the meeting, Mr. Hillery urged that the Protestant Orange Order parades scheduled for Monday be banned in sensitive areas—that is where there is a large Roman Catholic population—and re-routed where necessary. He did not call for an outright ban.

Authority Urged

"I have come to ask the British government to reassert the authority they claim to have," Mr. Hillery said.

In other developments concerning the parades, which many fear will spark new violence, the Rev. Ian Paisley, Protestant militant leader, discussed the situation today with Home Secretary Reginald Maudling. Mr. Maudling was rebuffed by Orange leaders yesterday when he appealed to them to abandon the parades.

On leaving the meeting, Mr. Paisley warned of a "very serious" situation if the marches were canceled. But he said that he would exert his influence to see that the parades went off peacefully.

Commenting on his visit to the Belfast Falls Road area, Mr. Hillery said that the Roman Catholic community there had been subjected to armed attacks last summer.

Nothing that many of the arms found by the British Army in Roman Catholic homes last weekend

Railway Crash

In Belgium Kills

One, Injures 34

BRUSSELS, July 8 (Reuters).—A London-bound international express train speeding through the night at 75 miles an hour derailed near Ghent today, killing one person and injuring 34.

Railway officials said the apparent cause of the crash on a section of the line under repair was the accidental switching off of a signal that would have restricted speeds there to 25 mph.

All six coaches of the train, which left Cologne last night, jumped the tracks about five miles southeast of Ghent.

The locomotive and one coach plunged 90 feet down a steep embankment, while a third coach rammed into a telegraph pole and was almost cut in half.

Only five of the injured were seriously hurt. The dead man was a Belgian barman on the express.

Soviet Poetess

Is Ruled 'Insane'

MOSCOW, July 8 (AP).—A Soviet poetess who has been active in political dissent in Moscow has been declared insane by a city court and ordered to remain in a mental hospital for an indefinite period.

The woman, Natalya Gorbunovskaya, 33, mother of two young boys, was arrested last Dec. 24 after the police searched her apartment and confiscated several protest documents and poems. She was committed to a Moscow prison hospital a week later and has been held there since.

Two young sympathizers who were barred from the proceedings were arrested outside the courtroom where the hearing was held when the police caught them trying to eavesdrop. The hearing was considered a non-criminal proceeding.

DIAMONDS

You can save up to 50 percent on single diamonds at wholesale prices by ordering direct from Antwerp, the world's largest cut-diamond market. Give diamonds to your lady, buy for investment, for personal use.

Write airmail for price list or visit us:

Joachim Goldenstein

DIAMOND CLUB

62 Pelikstraat,
Antwerp (Belgium).
Tel.: (03) 33-09-82.

Gold Medal
1958-1959

THE CROYDON

12 East 86 St., New York, N.Y. 10029
GRACIOUS LIVING
STEPS FROM CENTRAL PARK
1 and 2-bedroom air-cond. apartment suites with full kitchens and dining areas.
Furnished or unfurnished.
Also single and double rooms
TRANSIENT, MONTHLY OR LEASE
MR. D. HENRY, Mgr. Cable Twelfth.

the george V restaurant is a very unbusinesslike place...

But businessmen love it... have expected. Because they're able to So, when next you plan relax in the marvellously a business lunch, make sure cool and unhurried at- you reserve a table at the mosphere of a beautiful George V. Call 225-35-30 garden in the very heart and ask for the Restaurant of Paris. Because they can reservation desk. We'll be happy to welcome you.

Because they'll discover one of the best "tables" in the city. And at the end, there's a pleasant surprise. The check is less than you would the garden restaurant of the GEORGE V (open all summer)

STUDENTS! SCHOLARS!

Searching for your Identity?

For $100 we can provide you with the International Student or Scholar Identity Card which entitles you to valuable discounts and reductions in travel, theaters, museums and shops throughout Europe. (You must submit proof of full-time student status in 1970 and one passport or national photo.)
For further information, write or call:
CEES, 43A Rue Pierre-Charbon, Paris-6, Tel. 725-66-00.
Organization recognized by the French Ministry of Tourism. (J 6924.)

King's Ransom

The luxury
SCOTCH that's distinctly superior

Blended and bottled in Scotland by WILLIAM WHITELEY & COMPANY

Traveler's Guide To VIENNA

Keep young and beautiful with original Romanian beauty products made from the formula developed by Professor Mrs. A. Aslan, Bucharest.

GEROVITAL H3

Face cream, hand cream, lotions, etc. available C.O.D. from the exclusive European distributor, L. Mitterbauer, A-1010 Vienna, Praterstr. 30, Austria.

COLLINS HATS

VIENNA 1 - OPERA PASSAGE
SALESBURG - ALTER MARKT 1
corner KRAMERPASSAGE 4
Exclusive shop for Tyrolean Hats
Mail order - Amexco credit cards.

English book-center

German books rare and new
L. HEIDRICH,
1010 Vienna 1, Plankengasse 7.

GERSTNER

Traditional Viennese Café - Lunch
5 o'clock tea - Catering services,
Banquets, Cocktails, Receptions.
KAERTNERSTRASSE 6

Recommended by Fielding

JEWELERS

A.E. KOECHERT

SINCE 1814
Famous Vienna flower brooches, duty-free Piaget watches, fine jewelry.
Write today for illustrated catalogue.
Neuer Markt 15,
1010 Vienna, Austria.

GALERIE ARIADNE

Baackertstrasse 6, Vienna, T.: 52 25 51
ORIGINAL GRAPHICS
ERNEST FUCHS
Original Silk Screen Prints, $12.
WRITE FOR OUR CATALOGUE.

Traveler's Guide

to VIENNA

appears next on July 16 and 23,
August 6 and 13.
To place an advertisement contact
Mr. John McKim White, Bankgasse
8, 1010, Vienna. Tel.: 63-94-06.

USA, TWA, 747

ahhhhhh

London Nightlife

Ins and Outs of English Clubs

By Maxine Molyneux

LONDON, July 8.—Referring to White's, founded in 1685, Dean Swift said: "It is the club of which people have died from exclusion." And Disraeli, who was not a member, said that membership was a "supreme distinction comparable only to the Garter." No self-respecting Victorian gentleman could afford to be without his club, where he could retire at his leisure, relax in soft, buttoned leather chairs, free from the irritations of female company, and attended by an army of discreetly servile attendants.

To the 19th-century gentleman, a club offered security and an almost Masonic elitism—the "old boy" network of schools and universities extended to the club system in later life. With the club came an aura of instant wealth and status. The aspiring country gentleman with the right connections immediately had at his disposal the lavish opulence of a magnificently equipped town house, and the service of more waiters and stewards than he could hope to command in a lifetime.

Things have changed since then—the shift of decadence hangs over these bastions of masculine society; yet the concept of exclusivity remains. In spite of creeping socialism and the leveling of class distinctions, if a club is not exclusive, nobody who is anybody wants to join. Or put another way, as Groucho Marx once said: "I'm not going to pay good money to join a club that lets people like me in."

Men's Club

The gentlemen's clubs still exist, clustered on either side of Pall Mall, but changes in society have brought about a different kind of club, a club which retains its aura of quintessential elitism yet which allows the meritocracy in through the back door.

The new clubs cultivate a more informal atmosphere, and unlike the plush West End gentlemen's retreats, they provide not only quantities of food and drink, but suitable conditions for entertaining women. In place of learned tomes and bound volumes, mini-skirted discotheque girls help the extravagantly bored to while away their hours.

There are only three or four clubs (at a time) that are patronized by the young elite of London, because, quite simply, the elite is a limited group. For example, the Club dell'Arctura, Kings Road, Chelsea, was once at the pinnacle of exclusivity, with such personalities as Margot Fonteyne, Nureyev, Lee Radziwill and Laurence Harvey dining in the white terraced restaurant. Leading industrialists, young Greek millionaires et al. would come to sip their wine in the sleek Apollon décor.

But then the scene moved on: and this had nothing to do with the Arctura itself, or the impeccable service, and exceptionally good meals which it offers, but once the set had gone, the club began to seem rather like a banquet after the principal guests had left.

Although the club boasts a waiting list of several thousand names, and maintains strict restrictions on who and how many get in, it is, said one regular visitor, "no longer the watering place with the right connections."

Burke's seems to have taken over. Suddenly, this has become the place where people want to be seen. Burke's is run by a famous and fashionable photographer, the Earl of Lichfield, Douglas (Duggie) Hayward, an equally fashionable tailor, Leslie Linder, a film director, and Ian Hayton, a company director. This club in Clifford Street has about 1,300 members, and receives 50 applications a week, membership being limited to friends of the directors and shareholders, including a group of film stars such as Omar Sharif, Tom Courtenay and Michael Caine.

"The attraction," says Leslie Linder, "is simple: English food, and good service." Burke's has a big lunch crowd, and is also a late night/early morning restaurant with dancing facilities. Members can wear what they like. The menu includes exquisitely cooked, but nonetheless rather interesting dishes such as sausages and mash, toast-in-the-hole and other delicacies of the English cuisine. The food is a great success—perhaps it is a reaction against the Continental cuisine. But perhaps it is because 40 percent of the members are American.

On the edge of the club world, there are establishments that try to maintain an almost schizophrantic image, fostering both the traditional, discreet club delights and the more flamboyant pleasures of "swinging London."

Annabel's

But only one has managed to be really successful. Annabel's is frequented both by leading pop painters such as David Hockney, and by ageing peers of the realm in search of a little scintillating distraction. But Annabel's cannot be said to be disconcerted by its mixed image. It remains the mecca of the club world, la crème de la crème of exclusive nocturnal delights.

Annabel's has about 4,000 members, good food, a dance floor, £30,000 ($182,000) worth of art works, and a staff of 80. One employee stands guard in the men's room where a telex rattles out the stock market quotations.

But for all this, there is something sad about these clubs; when the revelers leave early in the morning, or order their grapefruit cocktail, eggs and bacon for breakfast at Burke's one wonders exactly what they have got for their money which they could not have got at one of London's better dine-and-dance restaurants.

The answer is always the same—prestige of belonging to something that the rank and file cannot join. It may be worth £25 ($80) a year, and another £20 ($68) per visit, which may be as often as several times a week. If one is very rich, perhaps it is all that money can buy.

The semi-annual fashion shows by top couturiers in Italy, Spain and France began yesterday in Rome. Despite strong buyer resistance to midi and maxi lengths, the message is long from all three fashion capitals, as these preview sketches from Women's Wear Daily reveal. Above, a silk print dress from Hubert de Givenchy's summer collection, which the Parisian couturier picks as a prophesy of his clothes for fall. At right, one of Valentino's (of Rome) fall looks: a brown crepe midi skirt teamed with matching blouse. At far right, Pertegaz (Madrid) sticks with the jumpsuit in black silk jersey topped with a felt cape.

Ken Scott's New Prints: Heavenly

By Eugenia Sheppard

NEW YORK—Ken Scott, the man from Indiana who designs, manufactures, and runs his own fashion boutique in Milan, opened here Monday instead of with the usual fanfare in Rome.

In the past, the fabulous Scott openings, held around midnight at Roman nightclubs, gymnasia, and even an Italian country circus along with the animals, have drawn hundreds of spectators and made miles of headlines, not only for himself but for Italian fashions.

The most famous name in print fashions, along with Emilio Pucci, Ken Scott always keeps his dresses simple to show off the fabrics he designs. He liked the longer skirts before most designers did and goes on with them in the new collection. His skirts stop somewhere between mid-calf and ankle and below them are his favorite drape with ankle straps and soles an inch-and-a-half thick.

In prints he has rather thoroughly run through the birds, the flowers, and the animals, but he is never at a loss for a story. He has gone on to the celestial heavens. His two most spectacular silk jersey evening dresses put the rising sun or the full moon squarely across a lady's chest while the rest of her body is wrapped in racy clouds. Like many of his dresses, the jerseys have super-scarves as big as area rugs, made of the same sun and moon prints on gauzy chiffon.

Many of Ken Scott's own favorite prints are based on African art this time. There are five based on sea shells and another big group on folklore he picked up on a recent trip to the Orient.

Ken Scott designs for both men and women. He always shows his fashions in matched couples, though he doesn't expect they'll be worn that way.

More hangovers from the Orient are his wide wrap-and-tie pants for men and a simplified sarong for the girls. The sarong is actually a strapless evening dress wrapped to one side and designed to stay firmly in place, he guarantees. Like his body-molding midi it has its giant super-scarf.

Ken Scott varies his favorite Bahian with many other fabrics this time. The beach coverage both male and female, are usually stretch terrycloth and so are the bikinis and mailots when they aren't Lycra. The shirtwaist dresses, with belted tops and full midi skirts, are cotton jersey, linen jersey, stretch jersey or just plain cotton.

The most fascinating fabric in the collection turns out to be one of the early synthetics, nothing more than a sheer, crinkly rayon that manages to look antique and costume especially in a giant shawl outlined in long, stringy black fringe.

Spirit and Charm of Ravel and Puccini

By Paul Moor

EAST BERLIN, July 8.—The Komische Oper here has a major audience success in its new double-bill production of two 20th-century one-act operas, Ravel's "L'Heure Espagnole" and Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi." Of several productions of both these little gems in various countries, none, it seems to me, has so realized the potential of these stage comedies as do the East Berlin versions.

I went to the Ravel with a slightly heavy heart, for I knew that the Komische Oper would do it, as it does its entire repertoire, in the language the vast majority of its audience speaks and understands. I stoutly support this standpoint in principle, but still—Ravel? One could hardly find anything more quintessentially Gallic despite its Spanish setting, than this airy little trifle by Maurice Strakosky.

Surprisingly, this Berlin production turned out even more truly French in spirit and charm than the first one I attended at the Opéra Comique in Paris years ago. For one thing, the singers' incisive diction and the good acoustics made almost every syllable of that polished dialogue understandable. For another, the orchestra under its young and gifted conductor, Gert Böhmer, played with a nuance and subtlety they rarely have a chance to demonstrate, for the repertoire of this house, in spite of its name, tends towards the weightier works of the Italian and German schools.

Two beautiful performances came from Elisabeth Hert as the old watchmaker's young wife and from Hans-Martin Nau as the hunky young miller whose biceps belatedly attract her attention and whom she invites into her boudoir after two earlier callers had proven wet firecrackers. Werner Enders as the watchmaker, Hans-Otto Rogge as the foppish poet, and Horst-Dieter Kaschke as the corrupt financier all handled their roles expertly.

"Gianni Schicchi" sparked with mischief and satire. Uwe Kreppe, pillar of this company and a true old pro in the most admirable sense, had a field day in the rascally title role without ever succumbing to the constant temptation to ham it up. Renate Kraemer, as his daughter, sang the only real aria in the work with a rich, warm voice, and a touching youthful innocence. Thanks to Wilfried Wers's sets and costumes, which showed even more fancy and taste than he had simply shown in the Toledo watchmaker's shop, "Gianni Schicchi" offered as much for the eye as for the ear, for those sumptuous late 15th-century Florentine costumes and head-dresses made the stage look like a Botticelli canvas come to life.

Gunter Neumann as Rimuccolo proved himself in his little wisp of an air about Florence's towers, and Ruth Schöb-Lipka and Dimitra Pitiadou performed as character actresses as well as they sang. The main credit for the evening's success, though, must go to Wolfgang Kersten, one of the company's younger stage directors, who with this production fully realizes the promise shown in earlier ones. It will interest, and possibly amuse, connoisseurs of this unique opera house that Walter Felsenstein, that Austrian genius who founded it 22 years ago and still leads it, will next stage "Fiddler on the Roof" here, opening in December. Characteristically, rehearsals have already long since begun.

A Night Out At the New Paris Market

By Jon Winroth

PARIS, July 8.—It used to be a pleasure to end a night of theater-going, partying or dancing by a walk through Les Halles and then a plateful of oysters, a good steak and a bottle of Beaujolais at one of the many restaurants surrounding the central market pavilions.

All that is gone now, except for the hopelessly nostalgic who still see men wandering forlornly among the condemned iron and brick hulks in search of the ghosts of yesterday.

But those who seek real pleasure need only drive eight miles out the Avenue du Sud to Rungis, where Les Halles have been resurrected in modern dress. It costs four francs a car to get in but it is worth it.

After a tour of the fruit and vegetable pavilions, the best show is the immense fish pavilion, where one can go crazy trying to identify all the varieties of seafood.

The sight of all this bounty will get up the sort of appetite that demands a solid meal. Right across from the fish pavilion is the place to satisfy it—Le Grand Pavillon.

Emile Baldit, the owner, who has a restaurant in the Les Halles called Les Deux Pavilions, and nearly all his clients worked in the market. When they moved, he moved with them and opened his new restaurant March 4, 1969, the same day the new market went into operation.

Even in the summer months there are delicious clams and oysters, and Mr. Baldit has excellent 1969 Muscadet and Sancerre from Burgundy to wash them down.

Other fish are served, such as bourre blanc or in cream sauce, such as the Hôte de Saint-Pierre (John Dory) or Pommes (saumon) or baudroie à la crème, angler in a cream sauce with white wine, tomato, mushroom and a few of Mr. Baldit's secrets.

This is no grande outside, but it is very good and the men in bleus de travail (blue working clothes) with their red fishmonger's jackets putting it away with gusto or standing three deep at the counter to wine are the same men who were doing just that in the Les Halles.

Le Grand Pavillon, 6 Quai de la Seine, 94-Rungis. Tel. phone: 726-98-58. Closed Sundays and between 5 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.—the dearest time at Rungis—during July and August. Thirty to 40 francs (US$ to $7.25).

JEAN ET JEWELLER-WATCHMAKER
70, fg St-Honoré - Paris
Anj. 12-33

SPANISH
HIGH FASHIONS

1970-71 Fall-Winter Collections

IN MADRID, July 16 to 18, 1970

Fashion Houses Showing Their Collections:

HIGH FASHIONS

ELIO BERHANYER
HERRERA Y OLLERO
LINO
CARMEN MIR
PERTEGAZ

PEDRO RODRIGUEZ
PEDRO ROVIRA
SANTA EULALIA
VILLAHIERRO
MARBEL JR.

SUEDE AND NAPA

ANTELUX
IBANEZ
PELETERIA BELGA

For further information, write to:

Oficina de Promoción de la Moda Española, Ministerio de Información y Turismo, Avenida del Generalísimo, 39, Madrid 16, Spain.
Telephone: 279-35-15

"Authentic Zolotas jewelry, inspired by ancient Greek necklaces, bracelets and rings, can only be bought at my chrysothèques:

70 rue St. Honoré in Paris,
6 University Avenue in Athens, at the Athens Hilton, and on the island of Mykonos."

Ilias Lalacouris

Chrysotheque Zolotas. All my creations are 18 or 22 carat gold and cost between $50 and $5000.

The most famous producer of diamonds in the world. HARRY Each stone is cut in his own workshop WINSTON and the choice is Balzac 69-07 is unlimited. It is also in his own workshop that these precious stones are transformed into exclusive creations, justifying the slogan:
"from the mine to the jewel"

At Group of Ten Meeting

West Decides to 'Go Slow'
On Flexible Exchange Rates

By Clyde H. Farnsworth

PARIS, July 8 (AP)—The major industrialized Western nations decided here today to go slow in introducing greater flexibility to the monetary system.

While narrowing their differences on just how to achieve the objective of easing currency adjustments, treasury officials and central bankers from the top ten industrial nations said they would continue studying the issues without making any firm commitments this year.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Deputies of the Group of Ten decided that "solutions should not be sought with haste." Rinaldo Ossola, deputy governor of the Bank of Italy, told reporters.

Mr. Ossola, who chaired the meeting, disclosed that the six member states of the European Economic Community had not yet been able to adopt a common position.

France and Belgium also opposed greater flexibility, while West Germany, Italy and Holland are in favor. Because of this split, the British government, now negotiating community membership, has decided the wisest course is to take no position.

The United States had hoped for more solid results but apparently did not press its case in an effort to avoid diplomatic frictions.

Capital Spending Plans Increasing in EEC

Inflation Seen
Continuing Threat

BRUSSELS, July 8 (AP)—The investment boom in the European Economic Community will persist in the next few months, the EEC's June economic survey said today.

Industrialists in all member countries had recently expanded investment plans for 1970, though these were already extensive at the end of 1969, the survey said.

In Germany a 22 percent increase in capital spending is now probable, against the 18 percent forecast at the end of 1969. In France, the increase is estimated at 27 percent, up from 19 percent; in Italy 42 percent from 41 percent; and in Luxembourg 88 percent from 87 percent. Detailed Dutch and Belgian figures were unavailable.

The propensity to invest was particularly pronounced in the metal products and basic materials industries, while plans in mining, and in the food, beverages and tobacco industries, were below average.

Management was reported to be very optimistic about future sales prospects. The upward revision of investment plans was, however, probably due partly to the fact that price increases had proved cheaper than was generally expected at the end of 1969.

In the Community as a whole industrial production had continued to expand fairly briskly, though not as fast as at the beginning of the year. In general, growth would probably prove to have lost momentum, mainly because so many firms were running at or near capacity and labor was so scarce, the report said.

To judge by results of the EEC business surveys, the backlog of orders in some consumer goods industries, especially textiles and leather, had contracted a little since the beginning of the year. On the other hand, the demand for capital goods and basic materials—particularly chemicals and steel—was running at a very high level.

In April and May the rise in consumer prices was again held back, but largely because of seasonal factors, the report said.

Delivery Delay
In general the backlog of orders had continued to increase since the beginning of the year, causing further lengthening of delivery dates—especially in respect of capital goods.

Demand within the Community had remained brisk, and this was the main reason why the growth of exports by the metal products industries had suffered only slightly from the fall in demand from non-member countries, especially the United States.

Room conditions in the Community were again reflected in sharply rising tax yields, the report said. But the general market increase in expenditure prevented a commensurate improvement in the net budget position of most member states. Only the French budget would probably prove to have been well in surplus in recent months, given high tax receipts and the tight rein on public spending.

The equity markets, which had fallen sharply up to the last week of May, had settled down again somewhat. On balance, share prices had risen in most member countries, except Italy where they had kept falling in recent weeks.

Inflation Warning

BRUSSELS, July 8 (AP)—The EEC Executive Commission today warned member states of growing inflation.

In a note to the EEC Council of Ministers, the commission said member states should maintain and intensify their policies to combat inflation, which is almost uniform within the community.

The commission appealed to the members to trim public expenditure as much as possible, and called for the solving of wage-increase problems by joint consultations among governments, workers and employers. All six member states are now drafting 1971 budgets.

Philips Obtains
$250 Million Loan

LONDON, July 8 (Reuters).—Philips Gloeilampenfabriek today signed an agreement here with a syndicate of nearly 50 international banks for a $250 million five-year loan.

The interest rate is variable and will be determined for a period of either three or six months at Philips' option, at 3/4 point over the interbank rate.

The credit will be drawn in minimum amounts of $50 million either in Eurodollars or other European currencies, with the first drawing expected on July 15, 1970.

The syndicate is managed by N.M. Rothschild and Sons, Amsterdam-Rotterdam Bank NV, Pierson, Heiding and Pierson, and Manufacturers Hanover Ltd.

Penguin Co.
To Be Bought
By U.K. Firm

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Penguin Books, the paperback house, is to be taken over by S. Pearson and Son, a British holding company with major publishing interests, under a plan announced today.

S. Pearson controls, among other things, the highly profitable financial Times, the Westminster Press chain of local newspapers, and Longman, book publishers.

Viscount Coward, one of the richest men in Britain, controls S. Pearson through his own and his publishing interests. It controls Lazard Brothers, the merchant bankers, and the Château La Cour vineyard in France.

Penguin was founded and controlled by Sir Allen Lane, who died here yesterday. Negotiations for the merger had begun with his approval.

Under the plan, Penguin will acquire the issued capital of the Pearson publishing subsidiary, Pearson-Longman. In exchange, Penguin will turn a majority of its shares over to Pearson.

It will be a complicated transaction, involving among other things a new issue of shares by Penguin. Sir Allen Lane is believed to have held more than 1 million of the present 3 million Penguin shares. Another 377,500 are held by McGraw-Hill, the American publisher.

Penguin's share price jumped 39 cents today on the news of the merger proposal, to $5.55. In the deal the company is valued at $21 million.

U.S. Retail Sales Dip
1% to $30.22 Billion

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Retail sales in the United States declined 1 percent in May after a stable increase in April, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

May sales after seasonal adjustment were $30.22 billion, down from $30.54 billion in April and up from $29.80 billion in March. The May figure was up 3 percent from the 1969 month, somewhat less than the rise in prices over the same period.

Positions Clarified in Fairchild Hiller
Case Against GE on NASA Contract

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—In an article on July 3 about the reopening of bidding for a space satellite contract, the New York Times news service (and the International Herald Tribune) erroneously stated that Controller General Elmer B. Staats had upheld charges by the losing bidder, Fairchild Hiller Corp.

The company charged that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) had given the winning bidder, General Electric Co., "preferential treatment and had allowed some of Fairchild's proprietary development to fall into the hands of General Electric."

Mr. Staats, in a letter sent to Thomas O. Falne, NASA administrator, neither upheld nor rejected the Fairchild charges.

He simply said that a month-long study had convinced the General Accounting Office (GAO) that "the established award selection procedures were not followed and that the procedures which were followed were defective."

GE Denies Any Leak

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—GE says it was successful bidder on a $50 million space satellite contract because of superior performance, not because of an information leak as suggested by Fairchild.

Marc Laufergeon

PEOPLE IN BUSINESS

Marc Laufergeon, 46, president of Cte. Générale de Constructions Téléphoniques, has been named vice-chairman of TTT-Europe.

Aubrey Jones, chairman of the U.K. National Prices and Incomes Board, has been named to succeed Lord Hill as chairman of Laporte Industries Ltd., effective Nov. 1. Lord Hill retires Oct. 31, remaining a director until March 31.

First vice-president of Bankers Trust Co., Ellsworth Donnell, 45, has become head of the Bankers Trust European headquarters division based in London. Mr. Donnell succeeds Cyril J. Bridge, who retired at the end of June.

R.H. Thesing, vice-president in charge of European operations of Stanley Works, has been appointed group vice-president-international, in charge of all operations outside the U.S.A. and Canada. Mr. Thesing will have offices in Connecticut and London.

Juan de Liedekerke has been elected to the board of directors of Smith, Barney & Co. Inc. Mr. de Liedekerke is company vice-president, corporate finance, in Paris.

Bechtel France S.A., French affiliate of Bechtel Corp., has named J. Léviat to the position of general manager. Mr. Léviat is consultant and vice-president of the firm.

International Nickel Ltd. has announced the appointments of F. J.R. Butler, assistant managing director, as company vice-chairman, and D.J. Phillips, general marketing manager, assistant managing director.

William J. Whitmore and T.G. G. Peterson have been elected vice-presidents of Carborundum Co. Mr. Whitmore and Mr. Peterson are joint managing directors of the company subsidiary in England as well as European area directors.

Procter & Gamble Co. has named Kingston Fletcher, manager of the international division for Britain, Canada and Scandinavia, Mr. Fletcher will be succeeded by Thomas C. Collins as general manager of the firm's German subsidiary.

Export Growth
Reported Down at Toyota, Nissan

TOKYO, July 8 (Reuters)—The growth rate of Japanese car exports has slowed considerably in the first half of this year, Toyota and Nissan said today. The two firms account for more than 70 percent of Japan's total car exports.

Toyota said exports in the first half totaled 208,874 units, up 13.3 percent over the same period last year, when the company reported a 44.3 percent increase over 1968 figures.

Nissan's exports increased by 9.1 percent to 165,404 units over the same period of 1969, compared with a 62.6 percent increase over the 1968 rate.

Toyota said the decline in export growth this year was temporary and due to changes in models and shortage of shipping.

ICI License in Japan
TOKYO, July 8 (Reuters)—Kohjin Chemical Industry Co. today said it had obtained a license from Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd. to produce the British firm's sewage purifying device for sale in Japan.

AFCA
watch it go

Broad-Based N.Y. Rally
Sends Dow Up 12.73

By Vartan G. Varian

NEW YORK, July 8 (NYT)—The stock market turned around today after absorbing a pounding earlier this week and produced a brisk rally on the New York Stock Exchange that was still going strong at the final bell with the tape one minute late.

The Dow Jones industrial average, climbing higher by the hour, finished at 822.08 with a gain of 12.73, its best advance in more than three weeks.

On Monday and Tuesday, the Dow indicator had dropped a total of nearly 20 points, reflecting investor nervousness over forthcoming June-quarter earnings reports and rising tensions in the Middle East.

But today belonged to the glamour stocks, which kicked up their heels in a manner reminiscent of bull market moves. Disney jumped 12 5/8 to 123 and IBM ran up 10 to 253 1/2. Gains of better than 3 points a piece appeared in Xerox—the third most active stock—as well as Stek and Collins Radio.

Strong groups included rails, utilities, banks, conglomerates and the long-depressed defense stocks. The rally in the glimmers was touched off by short covering on the part of traders. As they bought back the stocks that had been sold short—and in many cases reaped some handsome profits—the pickup in glamour stock prices spread to the blue chips and the general market.

Group strength showed up also in the motors, oils, construction and savings-and-loans issues. Golds, once again displaying a move counter to the rest of the market, turned weak.

Du Pont rose 4 1/4 to 115 1/4 after dropping 5 1/2 points earlier this week amid Wall Street conjecture of lower profits for the second quarter. Eastman Kodak moved up 2 3/8 to 82 7/8 and American Telephone climbed 1 point to 42 1/2.

Market breadth—a key indicator to technicians—improved as 936 issues closed higher and only 354 stocks ended with losses. There were 2 new yearly highs and 188 lows on the NYSE. Yesterday had produced no highs and 267 lows. Volume on the NYSE, running 500,000 shares higher than yesterday, totaled 10.97 million shares, or slightly more than an average session for this year.

North American Car, which leases freight cars to shippers and railroads, was the most active issue. It gained 1 5/8 to 17 7/8. Shortly before noon, a 500,000 share block appeared on the tape at a price of $8. Flying Tiger up 7 9/16 to 12 3/8, said it bought the block, plus another 24,000 shares, for investment purposes.

Boeing Co. Wins
Giant Contract

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 8 (Reuters).—Boeing Co. has been awarded an Air Force contract to build an airborne warning and control system (AWACS), the Pentagon announced today.

The value of the contract was not disclosed, but could eventually total about $2 billion. Boeing was selected over McDonnell Douglas Corp., the other main bidder for the contract.

The initial contract calls for two test planes to be built and is believed to be worth between $300 and $400 million. Assuming successful testing and Air Force and Defense Department approval, the program will then move into the production phase of between 40 and 50 aircraft.

Income-Oriented Units Star
Among U.S. Mutual Funds

By Ernest A. Schonberger

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—It should come as no surprise that for the first half of 1970, the best-performing U.S. mutual fund group was income-oriented. Twenty-four of the top 50 fell in that category in a ranking of 464 funds by Arthur Lipper Corp.

But there are some surprises in the top 50. Eleven were growth-income funds. This type usually holds some Treasury bills, commercial paper or bonds to obtain current income, but considerable emphasis is also placed on growth stocks. And the growth stocks have been pummeled.

Probably even more surprising is that nine of the top 50 were straight growth funds. The rest of the pacemakers were what are known as balanced funds—those split between stocks and income securities.

Best performer of all was a straight income fund, the Mutual Fund for Investing in U.S. Government Securities Inc. (affiliated with Pittsburgh-based Federated Research Corp.).

No. 2 was a growth-income fund of less than $500,000—Washington National, part of the $1.5 billion Anchor Corp. Anchor Corp. chairman John Hair explains that "during the decline we held no stocks at all" and stuck with Treasury bills, commercial paper and bonds.

Government Securities and Washington National were the only ones to finish higher for the first half of the year, each ahead slightly better than 1.6 percent, while the Dow Jones industrial average was down 14.6 percent, the New York Stock Exchange composite was off 23.19 percent and the mutual fund industry as a whole was clipped 25.73 percent.

Another growth-income fund, International Investors, was No. 6, off 0.52 percent. How? "Almost 23 percent of our holdings were gold mining companies."

The top growth fund was Davidge Fund, a relative newcomer which has never been bigger than about $2 million. It did not make its money in growth stocks either.

"In fact, we 'shorted' growth stocks—the glimmers—right up to our 35 percent limits," says a Davidge spokesman. Profits are made on the short side only when the stock's price drops.

Average growth funds were down 31.02 percent for the first six months of 1970.

THE SHIPOWNERS FUND
N. ONASSIS, Chairman/President

A dynamic, innovative concept in funds exclusively and directly investing in the lucrative field of world marine shipping and managed by top men in the shipping business.

INVESTORS
• NO FRONT LOAD • TAX FREE*
• NO REDEMPTION FEE**
• BEARER UNITS
• AUTOMATIC PROFIT REINVESTMENT
• 20% PLUS COMPOUND ANTICIPATED GROWTH
• CONFIDENTIAL ACCOUNTS
• MINIMUM SUBSCRIPTION—$5,000 U.S.
*If written or applied for in Europe
**If subject to capital gains in Europe
*If subject to capital gains in Europe
*If subject to capital gains in Europe

BROKERS & PRODUCERS
• 5% REAL NET NON-REDUCING FLAT COMMISSION*
• NO STOCK OPTIONS
• NO QUOTAS • NO HOLD-BACK
• NO CONTINGENTS
• NO PROMOTIONS
• SERIOUSly DEFINED APPROACH
• PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT AND BACK OFFICE SUPPORT
*Not subject to volume. Payable on any sale or switch anywhere in the world.

SHIPPING INDUSTRY PERFORMANCE
(Case history actual averages — 1960-1970)
INCOME
Average annual profit — 24.2%
CAPITAL GROWTH
Reinvested profits 10 years — 652%
OUTLOOK Higher

THE SHIPOWNERS FUND managed by
"THE SHIPOWNERS FUND" INC.
N. ONASSIS, Chairman/President

Drop in, Call, Wire or Telex
P.O. Box 241, London, W.C.2
C. S. Beach, Secretary
25 Rue de Braganca, Lux, Tel. 472-764
Cable: Shipownersfund Lux
ALL INQUIRIES TREATED IN STRICTEST CONFIDENCE
Valid only where legal.

fly through customs in New York. TWA's 747 Terminal.

New York Stock Exchange Trading

هڪ: امتداد

American Stock Exchange Trading

- 1970 - Stocks and S&P 500 First High Low Last. Change										- 1970 - Stocks and S&P 500 First High Low Last. Change										- 1970 - Stocks and S&P 500 First High Low Last. Change
High.	Low.	Div.	In 5	100s.	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Change	High.	Low.	Div.	In 5	100s.	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Change	High.	Low.	Div.	In 5	100s.	First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Change
8 1/4	7 3/4	1	7 1/4	7 1/4	7 1/4	7 1/4	7 1/4	7 1/4	7 1/4	30	18	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	31	19	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	32	20	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	33	21	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	34	22	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	35	23	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	36	24	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	37	25	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	38	26	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	39	27	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	40	28	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	41	29	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	42	30	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	43	31	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	44	32	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	45	33	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	46	34	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	47	35	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	48	36	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	49	37	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	50	38	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	51	39	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	52	40	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	53	41	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	54	42	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	55	43	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	56	44	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	57	45	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	58	46	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	59	47	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	60	48	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	61	49	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	62	50	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	63	51	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	64	52	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	65	53	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	66	54	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	67	55	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	68	56	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	69	57	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	70	58	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	71	59	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	72	60	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	73	61	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	74	62	10	10	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	21 1/2	13 1/2	10	10	10	10	10	10	10	10
12 1/4	11 3/4	1	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	11 3/4	75	63	10	10	10	10

These securities have been offered and sold outside the United States of America. This advertisement appears as a matter of record only.

$75,000.000

PepsiCo Capital Corporation N.V.

Guaranteed Floating Rate Loan Notes 1980

guaranteed by

PepsiCo, Inc.

Bankers Trust International Limited	S. G. Warburg &amp; Co. Limited	Banca Nazionale del Lavoro
Dresdner Bank Aktiengesellschaft	Kreditbank S.A. Luxembourgaise	Union Bank of Switzerland (Underwriters) Limited
	Western American Bank (Europe) Limited	Allen &amp; Company Incorporated
<hr/>
BNS International (United Kingdom) Limited	Burkhardt &amp; Co.
Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce	Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner &amp; Smith Securities Underwriter Limited
American Express Securities S.A.	Henry Aushaber &amp; Co. Limited	Arbuthnot Latimer &amp; Co. Limited
Astaire &amp; Co.	Julius Baer International Limited	Bank of America, S.A.
Banque du Benelux S.A.	Banque du Benelux-La Luxembourgeoise S.A.	Banque Belge Limited
Banque Française de Dépôts et de Titres	Banque Européenne de Tokyo S.A.
Banque Louis-Dreyfus &amp; Cie	Banque Nordique de Commerce	Banque Générale de Luxembourg S.A.
Banque Worms et Cie	H. Albert de Bary &amp; Co. N.V.	Banque de Suez et de l'Union des Mines
Creditanstalt Bankverein	Crédit Chimique	Berliner Bank Aktiengesellschaft
Den norske Creditbank	Dewaaay, Cortvriendt, Eliot Van Camphenout &amp; Cie	British and French Bank Limited
Euramerica International Limited	F.N.C.B. Eurosecurities S.A.	Crédit Commercial de France
Fleming, Suez, Brown Brothers Limited	Hambros Bank Limited	Crédit Lyonnais
Kansallis-Osake-Pankki	Lloyds Bank Europe Limited	Effectenbank-Wachung Aktiengesellschaft
National and Grindlays Bank Limited	Nesbitt, Thomson Limited	Finacor
Pitfield, Mackay, Ross &amp; Co. Limited	Rembours en Industriebank N.V.	Handelsbank in Zurich (Overseas) Limited
Strauss, Turnbull &amp; Co.	Trade Development Bank	Moscow Narodny Bank Limited
Westdeutsche Landesbank Girozentrale		Pearson, Heidring &amp; Pierson
		Slatcr, Walker Limited
		Vereinsbank in Hamburg
		Witte, Wold &amp; Co.

[illegible]

European Gold Markets

	July 8, 1979
		Open	Close	Change
London	.....	35.30	35.30	Unch.
Zurich	.....	35.30	35.35	+ 0.
Paris (12 1/2 dollars)	.....	36.00	36.14	+ 0.
U.S. dollars per ounce.

Tokyo Exchange

July 8, 1970
	Price
	Yen
Hi Glass ....	149	Matsu H. Ind
Ion Caml ...	316	Matsu H. Wh
Nip. Print.	339	Mitsubishi Hyv
Bank .....	264	Mitsui & Co.

Bank Stocks

	Bid.	Asked	Pre
Bank of Am. S.F. ..	51½	51¾	51½
Fiduciary Tr. ....	65	75	65
First Chicago Corp. .	51½	52	51
First Nat. Boston ..	60½	61½	60½
U.S. Trust Co. ....	50	52	50

*Fr. dividend.

International Bonds Traded in Europe

[illegible]

WINDING UP A BOXED-IN FUND?

Managers of off-shore funds

- that run into adverse legislation in Europe
- or meet sales resistance for any other reason.

Consider cashing in on your years of hard work.

Send latest prospectus and annual report, in confidence to: Box Number D-1,945 Herald Tribune.

BUSINESS

OPPORTUNITIES

---

COMPUTER

Products or services

HARVARD educated mgt. team intends to invest skills and money into computer related company. If your company is looking for mgt. or financial assistance, let's get together.

Please submit details to:
Box 12, K 16-134, Foliclitas,
CH 1211 Geneva 3, Switzerland.

EQUITY FINANCING NEED

by U.S.A. privately held to Communication Complex. currently developing compu-
terminals that permit entry at the source magnetic tape cassettes and voice response devices.
$2.M in back orders.
Write: President,
SDA INFORMATION SCIENCES, INC.
1240 Broadway, New York,
N.Y. 10024, U.S.A.

CONFIDENTIAL NATIONAL DEFENSE INFORMATION

At the gates of Lausanne (Switzerland) Lutry, Lake of Geneva for sale on sunny, elevated position with wonderful view, most comfortable FLATS 2 rooms from Sw.Fr. 89,000 3 1/2 rooms from Sw.Fr. 140,000 4 rooms from Sw.Fr. 150,000 Modern, fully equipped kitchen with refrigerator, electrical stove; bath; W.C., balcony, etc., terraces, parking places. Favourable conditions. Enquiries and inspection: GERMOB S.A., 3 Av. Flornant, CH-1003, Lausanne/Switzerland.	NEW YORK BOUND! Commuter Lead, U.S.A. Personal professional service for the discriminating buyer of choice homes ranging from violet trim to the tasteful Colonial. Westport-Waterloo School district, brochures, complete information available upon request. COLONIAL REALTY REALTOR 330 E. State Street, Westport, Connecticut 06880. For Sale Real Estate Agency
---	--

_____

BAHAMAS TAX FREE
30 Rental Apartments with 4 Swimming pools in Freeport, all presently rented at 17% net profit. Entire package for sale at once in a life-time bargain.
For details phone Switzerland:
021/62.37.09, or write:
Harford Construction

Coast, Spain. Authorize license. Spanish names

South Switzerland
LUGANO
We build and sell freshhold villas and flats in and around the town.
offer financial assistance and

Diamonds- The Jewel Amongst Investments

Investments
Diamonds have steadily appreciated since 1933.
-An Excellent Investment:
If you can buy at wholesale prices
If you can check prevailing prices regularly
If you can realize quickly and simply
If you can pass them on to your heirs

Amerint Investment AG

Please send more information to: A-1
Name: _____
Address: _____

PEANUTS

R.C.

LITTLE ABNER

BEETLE BAILEY

MISS PEACH

BUZZ SAWYER

WIZARD OF ID

REX MORGAN M.D.

POGO

RIP KIRBY

BLONDIE

BRIDGE

By Alan Truscott

South reached a contract of seven diamonds as shown after his partner had opened the North hand with two no-trump.

The bids of four and five clubs were the Gerber convention, asking North about aces and kings. When his responses indicated three aces and a king South could count 11 virtually certain tricks with a possibility of two or more to come from somewhere. He selected the grand slam in diamonds rather than no-trump because the suit contract was likely to offer greater flexibility.

West led the heart nine. South won with the heart ace in dummy and rightly prepared for the possibility that East held four trumps headed by the jack. He led to the diamond king and returned to dummy's ace, feeling pleased with his foresight when West discarded a spade.

From this point some luck was needed in the black suits. South ruffed a small heart, played three rounds of clubs ending in dummy, and ruffed another small heart. The position was then this:

NORTH (D)		EAST
AKQ10		74
AKQ52		37
A5		J872
QJ9		27642

SOUTH		WEST
863		KJ952
10		98643
AKQ10943		6
A5		103

Both sides are vulnerable. The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2 N.T.	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
5 ♠	Pass	7 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

West led the heart nine.

SOLUTION TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE
1. ALICE	2. CLIMB
3. FRESH	4. LIP
5. BANG	6. AGENDA
7. ALICE	8. ALICE
9. ALICE	10. CHILES
11. PERU	12. KETTY
13. SETA	14. ABASHED
15. AMENDS	16. ARIL
17. BERT	18. MAISER
19. OER	20. DANA
21. TRABERT	22. RUSSE
23. FASHIONOUS	24. ORDNANCE
25. BERS	26. EBBED
27. AMMO	28. SITINE
29. LEAS	30. STEER
31. ENOS

The solution had to assume that West held the spade king.

DENNIS THE MENACE

JUMBLE

Unscramble these four Jumbles, one letter to each square, to form four ordinary words.

INBAC

UDGIE

BELJUM

HUMILE

LIKE A

ON THE

VACANT

Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above cartoon.

(Answers tomorrow)

Yesterday's

Answer: One thing you can say for being poor—it's INEXPENSIVE

BOOKS

FAMILY PORTRAIT

By Catherine Drinker Bowen

Atlantic-Little, Brown, Illustrated, 301 pp. $7.50.

Reviewed by Gerald W. Johnson

In 1935 this reviewer was assigned a slender volume titled "Friends and Fiddlers" and signed with a name that he had never heard before, Catherine Drinker Bowen. It was charming.

Thirty-five years later a volume titled "Family Portrait" comes to the same reviewer signed with the same name, but this time he has heard of it—and how! This volume, too, is not without charm, but it does not depend upon that quality alone. It is richer, more vividly colored, wiser and sadder than "Friends and Fiddlers."

In the intervening 35 years Catherine Drinker Bowen has attained a position for which there is no exact classification. She may be described accurately as biographer, historian, critic of music and philosophy, but she is not a "professor" of any. She is a scholar, but not an academic.

Back in the days when women were suppressed more successfully than they are at present, the type was familiar enough and had its own designation: Man of Letters, which was generally understood. It meant one such as Samuel Johnson, no professor and merely an honorary doctor, who could turn out a dictionary, a novel, a poem, or a biography, all on a level of competence that makes it absurd to call him a lexicographer. He was a Man of Letters.

But to refer to Mrs. Bowen, nee Catherine Drinker, as a Woman of Letters is unsatisfactory, tending to bracket her with Mesdames de Sévigné, de Staël, Wootley Montagu and other geniuses of the epistolary style. This American woman's intellectual prototype is Dr. Johnson. It is not of record that she produced anything comparable to but the vanity of human wishes has been her theme all these years—and she has treated it with "extensive view."

"Les observations with extensive view Survey mankind from China to Peru"

In this volume, however, the view is narrowed to the Drinker family of Philadelphia, but the interest is wider than the view because sociologists will assuredly find this valuable case history of the development of "natural" aristocracy in America. The adjective is Jefferson's, and "far" from being an epithet, believed, long men based on "virtue and talents."

But Jefferson's virtue was a straight translation of the Latin virtue, which meant manliness, not piety.

Roman virtue the Drinkers certainly possessed, and Quaker virtue was not lacking among them as far back as the Revolution, when one Henry Drinker (fourth or fifth in a line that now comprises 17 Henrys) was deported from Pennsylvania to the remotest of concentration camps in Virginia because he refused not only to bear arms, but to swear allegiance to mortal man. A year and a half later General Nathaniel Greene released Drinker and his fellow Quakers with strong words about arresting people for their religious beliefs.

The early Drinkers also had talents of various kinds, but intellectuality seems to have become conspicuous among them with Catherine Drinker's father, an engineer who became president of Lehigh University, and transistored it from a technical institute into a liberal arts college. That was Henry S. Drinker, who married one of the two daughters of a French Huguenot named Beaux. The other daughter was Cecilia Beaux, who gained fame as a portrait painter, but who, in the eyes of her niece, was really remarkable for having more Roman virtue than Spartacus the Gladiator.

The dominant character in this book is, however, the oldest son, Henry M. Drinker, a successful corporation lawyer and author of various texts that are still regarded as authoritative in the law schools, but more remarkable for the choral singing, with 150 voices, that he conducted in his house on Sunday afternoon, and for his amazing analyses of the music of Johann Sebastian Bach. In Catherine's eyes he was The Drinker, much as the Duke of Argyll is The Campbell, or General Sir Gordon is The MacMillan.

Nevertheless, there was also Dr. Cecil Drinker, physiologist and for years one of the great stars of the Harvard Medical School, and Philip Drinker, an engineer, who fabricated the iron lung, that was the sole hope of polio victims in the pre-Salk-Sabin days. It is an impressive record for one family in a single generation. And this ignores Catherine's sister Ernestine, an international beauty who, as the wife of William C. Bullitt, for a time was very close to the seats of power.

Here, then, is a Pennsylvania family to set alongside Adams of Massachusetts, Byrd and Harrison of Virginia, Roosevelt of New York, and Stevenson of Illinois, as part of our natural aristocracy, and over against the plutocracy—although Rockefeller and Kennedy seem to be in transit from the latter characteristic common to these genetic lines? In the case of Drinker it is obvious that they include talent, diligence, strength and courage. Charm is an asset, but dispensable. No Adams has had it, and no Stevenson lacked it. Money helps, but only moderately. But without brains and guts nobody enters that class—and isn't that what Jefferson meant?

Finally, here is a prediction, risky, but a calculated risk: After another 35 years, if this house retains its status, men examining it will decide that The Drinker was none of the Henrys, but Kitty. There were brave men before Agamemnon, but no Homer recorded their deeds, so to what end did they do and dare?

A long-time commentator of the American scene, Gerald W. Johnson wrote this review for Book World, literary supplement of The Washington Post.

CROSSWORD

By Will Weng

ACROSS		DOWN
1 Redoubt	53 Lather	1 Call for	22 Baby ailment
6 Foreign part	55 Peasants' field	2 Nurse poem	24 Saint
10 Space	59 Exotic flower	3 Of a poetic form	26 Bedding covers
14 African region	62 "I wouldn't let — out —"	4 Georgia city	27 Richer's dream game
15 Restrain	63 Junior vaults	5 Leg joints	28 Shipping-room item
16 Desist	66 Prohibition	6 Luncheonette utensil	30 One who stares
17 Reason for a	67 O'Neill work	7 Yarn measures	32 Brew
18 Reason for a	68 Acid-alcohol compound	8 Suitable place	33 Well and others
19 Accept a challenge	69 Sabbath utterance	9 Turkish capital	34 Tree of Brazil
20 School Fr.	70 Kennel sound	10 Hiker's means	35 Ground-to-air weapon
21 In chains	71 Exhibits	11 Spoken	36 Court matters
22 Fabrics		12 Eye in a way	37 Sportscaster
23 Olympian		13 Pinchile play	38 Rote and others
24 Blaster's need			39 Disorderly
25 Buck			40 Curt
31 Baked			41 Mass dwellings
35 State			42 Roman
37 Abrupt transition			43 magistrate
38 Metrical accent			44 Hide, as booty
40 Pottery workers			45 Information
41 In high curls			46 Genesis figure
44 Noticed			47 Vestment
45 — precedent			48 Riches Fr.
46 Violates a commandment			49 Tilt
48 — avia			50 Swerve
49 Greek letter			51 Con out of
51 Recent suffix			52 Certain student abbr.

29 for 9, 43 for 13

Rain Halts Jacklin In Torrid 1st Round

By Fred Tupper

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 8 (AP)—Rain temporarily suspended play for the day and delayed completion of what looked to be the first round in the making over shot in the British Open. For Tony Jacklin was eight under par for 13 holes when thunder and lightning struck and the deluge flooded the course.

The defending British champion had a 29 on the first nine with five birdies and an eagle and added another birdie on the 10th hole. Record for the British Open is 65, held jointly by Henry Cotton, Eric Brown and Peter Butler of Britain and Leonardo Ruiz of Argentina. Record for nine holes is 29 by five-time champion Peter Thomson of Australia and Tom Haliburton of Britain set on the same day at Lytham St. Anne's in 1963. The record for the Old Course here was 65 until Neil Coles of Britain smashed it today by a stroke in easy conditions earlier on. They all seemed in danger under Jacklin's magnificent assault.

Came the rain. The Royal and Ancient announced that "play has been temporarily suspended for the day and will be resumed at 0730 tomorrow morning where balls lie tonight."

Jacklin had started three times as putt went down on 15, 5, and 15 feet. Two woods and two putts gave him another birdie on the par-five fifth hole. With the ball hanging between two clumps of grass on a fairway bunker, Tony hit a chip-and-run shot to six feet out and in went the putt for a birdie three on the seventh.

On the next three and Tony was in trouble. A drive and then, as somebody yelled "fore," his concentration snapped and Jacklin pushed a four wood into a bush. "I guess I'll have to take the penalty and drop it out tomorrow. It looks unplayable. I'll be lucky to get a six."

Jacklin was down for 43 shots for the 13 holes. It was a difficult day in this 9th British Open. A Scottish "haar," with mist swirling and visibility down to 200 yards, had delayed the start by half an hour. Then this famous Old Course lay exposed and defenseless under a warm sun and slight easterly breeze.

The glittering field then reduced to a trickle. Coles, one of the stars of the Ryder Cup team that drew 16-16 with the United States, last fall, was out in 31, his appetite whetted by a half-hour wait on the fifth.

ILTA Rejects Bid to Prevent South Africa From Competing

PARIS, July 8 (AP)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) today rejected a Hungarian proposal to prevent South Africa from competing in international tennis.

Only the Soviet bloc and some African countries backed the expulsion move, rejected by the federation's annual general meeting by a 172-56 vote.

Federation president Ben A. Barnett of Australia said most delegates were swayed against the Hungarian motion by a letter from the non-white South African National Lawn Tennis Association pleading on behalf of 16,000 black and colored players not to be barred from international tennis.

The Hungarian proposal was opposed by the ILTF management committee, which commented that the exclusion of South Africa from this year's Davis Cup competition was sufficient sanction.

The federation also decided to allow tennis to be played with yellow balls for an experimental period of one year. The colored-ball experiment was suggested by the British Federation to determine whether they gave better visibility—particularly in artificial light.

Another change in the rules experimentally approved for one year was an American proposal to spread a tie when a score reaches six games all. The players will alternate two points with a point scoring system so arranged that the first man to win five points wins the game and the set at a nominal score of 7-5.

PARIS, July 8 (AP)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) today rejected a Hungarian proposal to prevent South Africa from competing in international tennis.

Only the Soviet bloc and some African countries backed the expulsion move, rejected by the federation's annual general meeting by a 172-56 vote.

Federation president Ben A. Barnett of Australia said most delegates were swayed against the Hungarian motion by a letter from the non-white South African National Lawn Tennis Association pleading on behalf of 16,000 black and colored players not to be barred from international tennis.

The Hungarian proposal was opposed by the ILTF management committee, which commented that the exclusion of South Africa from this year's Davis Cup competition was sufficient sanction.

ON THE BACK STRETCH—John Lowe, a runner on the Newark, Del., high school track team, who conditions himself by sprinting up steps in the University of Delaware Stadium, takes a breather.

Valiant easily beats Heritage as America's Cup Trials Open

By Steve Cady

NEWPORT, R.I., July 8 (AP)—A sparkling scene of unlimited ability was dilled by some very limited competition yesterday in the opening round of the America's Cup observation trials.

As expected, Valiant and Intrepid showed the most speed. Valiant defeated Heritage by 9 minutes 35 seconds, a margin that matched the name of the race committee boat: "nordic." Intrepid defeated Weatherly, Valiant's 12-year-old trial horse, by 3 minutes 55 seconds.

The sensational off-Brenton Reef fight was delayed two hours, until 1 p.m., to allow yachtsmen to attend memorial services for the late Harold S. Vanderbilt.

Today's pairings, with the regular 11 a.m. rendezvous, will send Intrepid against Heritage and Valiant against Weatherly.

Today's 243-mile races were sailed on fairly smooth seas in moderate southwest breezes that began at 12 knots, softened to half that velocity and freshened late in the day.

Neither contest generated enough excitement to keep a seagull awake. After more than four hours of racing, only a handful of the 50 spectator craft that turned out were still around.

By then, Valiant was more than a mile ahead of Heritage. Both were flying red protest flags, the result of a close tacking incident a couple of minutes before the start. Der Barker, chairman of the New York Yacht Club's race committee, said the protest wouldn't be decided until tomorrow morning.

Tensi Has Back Surgery

DENVER, July 8 (AP)—Steve Tensi, a starter at quarterback for the Denver Broncos, had back surgery today.

Underwent surgery for a back injury suffered last November. He will be out of action six to eight weeks.

Clay Exhibition Is Blocked By Ruling in South Carolina

CHARLESTON, S.C., July 8 (AP)—The Charleston County Council said yesterday that it won't permit former world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay to fight in his 4,000-seat county hall.

Promoter Reggie Jackson said his attorneys would seek an injunction to prevent the council from stopping the exhibition.

Clay is scheduled to spar in two three-round matches tomorrow night.

Jackman says the fights might take place at a local speedway that seats about 2,000 in its bleachers.

That's a long way from the last time Muhammad fought—November, 1967, before a packed house in New York's Madison Square Garden, where he knocked out Zora Folley in the seventh round.

And it seemed like a far different fighter last night as the 35-year-old former champ answered questions in a telephone interview. He was no longer full of himself, he said.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money. He said he was just coming in here and he was here to make money.

France Shocks U.S. to Lead Meet by 56-50

PARIS, July 8 (AP)—France, winning three sprint events, shocked the United States tonight with seven victories in the first half of a two-day track and field meet here.

France led in point scoring, 56 to 50.

The French beat America's best runners in the 100-meter dash, 400-meter hurdles and 4 x 100 meter relay. French athletes also won the shot put and long jump events.

Jean-Claude Nallet, 23, started the Americans in the first event of the evening with a victory in the 400-meter hurdles, defeating American record holder Ralph Mann of Brigham Young University in 48.2 seconds. It was a new French record and equaled the best world time this year, set by Mann.

Nallet passed Mann at about 220 meters and ran away from him. Mann's time was 49.5 seconds.

"I was never beaten like that before," Mann said, a startled look on his face. "I just let him get away from me."

The series of French sprint successes continued in the 100 meters when the United States was dominated for decades. Alain Sarte beat out Ben Vaughan, U.S. Army, in 10.5 seconds. Gerard Pénou of France was third, also in 10.5 and Ivory Crockett of Western Illinois University was fourth in 10.6.

Vaughan said he lost three yards in a bad start. "That accounts for the terrible time," he said.

France's third surprising sprint victory came in the 4 x 100-meter relay, when Eddie Hart of the University of California at Berkeley and Willie Turner of Oregon State made a bad baton pass on the first leg. The French team of Sarte, Fenouil, Jean Bourne and René Metz ran the relay in 38.0; the U.S. team did 39.2.

The French kept their lead by winning the 3,000-meter steeplechase and 5,000 meters as expected, and by taking the long jump and shot put events the United States was forced to win.

At the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

In the long jump, France took the first two places with Jacques Paul registering 8.05 meters and Christian Tourret, 7.82 meters. The best American effort was by Jim Smith of the University of Oregon with 7.81 meters. America's victories were the shot put, Pierre Colnard, a 41-year-old sergeant in the French Army, set a new French record of 19.70 meters to beat out Steve Wilhelm of the University of Kansas, who did 19.44 meters.

Evans Too Fast for AAU As Both Miss Connections

By Bernard Kirsch

PARIS, July 8.—Lee Evans is so fast that nobody saw him run tonight in Colombes Stadium.

Evans came to Paris late Sunday night. The U.S. track and field team arrived shortly afterward and both Evans and the team—two separate entities—checked into the same hotel. For the last three days, the team and Evans ate at the same hour—the team in a private dining room, Evans alone. For the last three days, the 47-man team and Evans worked out in Colombes Stadium. Usually not at the same hour.

And tonight, while the team was competing against the French athletes, Evans was sitting in the stands, his wife, Linda, and their 1 1/2-year-old son, Keith, by his side. It was hard work sitting in the stands. Evans said, "If they'd ever let me run, I'd set a world record."

But, unfortunately for Evans and the team, there have been several complications and misunderstandings—upon the part of both parties—which have prevented Evans from competing in the two-day meet, and in the two upcoming meets in West Germany and Russia.

The members of the U.S. squad were chosen according to their performances in the Amateur Athletic Union championships in Bakersfield, Calif., two weeks ago. First and second-place finishers qualified for this international competition, except that anyone qualifying had to be able to make all three meets, or none.

This ruling was requested last year by the athletes themselves because they wanted to have team unity, instead of having runners rushing in and out of meets and pushing some runners out of meets.

Several athletes couldn't commit themselves to the one-month of competition. Bob Seagren, who won the AAU pole-vault, couldn't make it, nor could shot-put winner Randy Matson, nor Marty Liquori, second-place finisher in the mile. Evans, for one of the rare times in the last two years, was beaten in the 440-yard run, finishing second to John Smith.

At the time, Evans didn't think he could make this trip. He was scheduled to tour Europe with a group of 40 children which he coaches in the San Jose area. At the last minute, that trip was canceled and Evans ended up coming to Europe with the vice-principal of a San Jose high school. Their purpose was to study the secondary-school systems, which Evans would use towards his masters degree.

So suddenly, Evans found himself with more free time than he expected. After competing in several meets in Europe, he came to Paris from Milan to join the U.S. runners, with the hope that some new arrangements could be made to put him on the team.

But the AAU seldom makes exceptions to the rules. Stan Wright, on the AAU committee and traveling with the squad, said it would be hard to even try and get Evans on the team. That it would take many phone calls to many parties in the U.S.

Then L'Equipe, the French daily sports paper, suggested that there be a special open event for Evans. No representative of the American squad asked for the special race. "If something like this happened two years ago, I'd have been banging on doors," said Evans, who two years ago was a strong advocate and speaker for the black-power cause.

"Funny, though, I guess you change in two years," and then Evans said, "Maybe you bridged the generation gap" and Evans laughed and said, "Yeah, I guess so."

Evans said, "Too bad the track I'll be running on next week in Munich is dirt instead of something like the fast Tartan track here."

He smiled again and didn't have to say anything like, "I'd be so sweet to show them and break a world record the next time I run."

Clemente Leads Bucs Past Phillies

By Murray Chass

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—People close to the Pittsburgh Pirates say Roberto Clemente is a new man this year. He frequently smiles, he jokes with his teammates, he doesn't talk about retiring.

In another respect, though, the one that counts where the Pirates are concerned, Clemente hasn't changed at all. He still hits as he did last year and the 14 seasons before that.

He certainly hit last night, lashing a key double and a home run as the Pirates trimmed Philadelphia, 4-2, and remained one-half game behind the New York Mets.

The double came in the sixth, after which Clemente scored on Manny Sanguillen's single, tying the game at 2-2. Then, in the eighth, Clemente broke the tie with a home run off Chris Short.

The homer was only the right fielder's ninth of the season, but the fifth in his last five games. In that period Clemente has collected 14 hits in 23 times at bat (a .609 pace), raising his batting average 28 points to .359.

He also has accounted for nine of his 41 runs batted in and scored 10 of his 36 runs during that time.

Reids, 3, Padres 0

Gary Nolan and Clay Carroll gave Cincinnati their fourth shutout in nine games played in their new stadium, stopping San Diego on seven hits for a 3-0 decision.

Cubs 10, Expos 7

Willie Smith collected four singles, including two-run hits in the third and fourth, as Chicago downed Montreal, 10-7. Billy Williams also rapped four hits, including his 25th homer and knocked in three Cub runs.

Dodgers 7, Astros 2

Willie Davis continued his amazing batting on artificial turf, rapping four hits, including a bases-loaded triple, in Los Angeles' 7-2 triumph. Davis' average on artificial turf this season is .517.

Giants 8, Braves 5

San Francisco overcame Atlanta, 8-3, on a tie-breaking, three-run homer by Dick Dietz off Hoyt Wilhelm in the seventh. Dietz also doubled across two runs in the first.

Red Sox 5, Tigers 4

In the American League, home runs by Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli paced Boston to an 8-4 first-game victory, but Detroit won the second, 4-3, on a home run by Elliott Maddox off Cal Koonce in the 10th. Maddox tied the game with a run-scoring double in the eighth.

Brewers 4, White Sox 3

Milwaukee evacuated the Western Division cellar for the first time since May 21, replacing Chicago

Wins 7 Out of 10 Events

first two places in the 800 meters with times of 1:47.5 and 1:47.8. Third-place finisher was Gilles Simon in 1:48.8.

The discus went to John Powell of San Jose, Calif., with a throw of 59.94 meters, followed by Rich Drescher of Southampton, N. Y., with a throw of 58.96 meters. The best French effort came from Raymond Bache with 55.00 meters for third place.

The United States also grabbed the first two places in the pole vault with Sam Carruthers of Oklahoma City going over at 5.25 meters and Paul Heglar of the University of Texas at El Paso at 5.8 meters. France's Francois Tracelli, one of the few French favorites who did not live up to expectations, was third with 4.90 meters.

The French runners were buoyed by a hysterical cheering crowd of about 12,000 that rhythmically chanted the names of the French long-distance aces and whooped and shouted with every French effort in the field events. The track was wet from late afternoon rain but the Americans said it was in good condition and did not affect their performances.

100-METER HURDLES—1. Jean-Claude Nallet, France, 48.2; 2. Ralph Mann, U.S., 49.5; 3. Michel Mouton, France, 51.0; 4. Ron Whitney, U.S., 51.1.

100-METER—1. Alain Sarte, France, 10.5; 2. Ben Vaughan, U.S., 10.5; 3. Gerard Penou, France, 10.6; 4. Ivory Crockett, U.S., 10.6.

200-METER STEEPLECHASE—1. Jean-Paul Villain, France, 8:23.6; 2. Bill Reddy, U.S., 8:33.2; 3. Guy Texereau, France, 8:41.5; 4. Jim Morris, U.S., 8:41.6.

500-METER—1. Ken Swenson, U.S., 1:47.5; 2. Mark Wimsor, U.S., 1:47.8; 3. Gilles Simon, France, 1:48.8; 4. Jean-Pierre Dufrenoy, France, 1:49.6.

SHOT PUT—1. Pierre Colnard, France, 19.70 m; 2. Steve Wilhelm, U.S., 19.44 m; 3. Al Feuerbach, Empire State, 19.35 m; 4. Arjunt Beer, France, 18.90.

5000-METER—1. Jean Wadoux, France, 15:25.0; 2. Frank Shorter, U.S., 15:42.4; 3. Jean Levallet, France, 15:44.6; 4. Rick Riller, U.S., 15:55.8.

DISCUS—1. Jean Powell, U.S., 59.24 m; 2. Rich Drescher, U.S., 58.96 m; 3. Raymond Bache, France, 55.00 m; 4. Michel Grosso, France, 54.90.

LONG JUMP—1. Jacques Paul, France, 8.05 m; 2. Christian Tourret, France, 7.82 m; 3. Jim Morris, U.S., 7.81 m; 4. Norman Tyle, U.S., 7.80.

4 x 100-METER RELAY—1. France: Sarte, Fenouil, Bourne, Metz, 38.0; 2. United States: Crockett, Vaughan, Sarte, Hart, 39.2; 3. West Germany: Sarte, Hart, Metz, 39.5; 4. Soviet Union: Sarte, Hart, Metz, 39.5.

100-METER—1. Alain Sarte, France, 10.5; 2. Ben Vaughan, U.S., 10.5; 3. Gerard Penou, France, 10.6; 4. Ivory Crockett, U.S., 10.6.

200-METER STEEPLECHASE—1. Jean-Paul Villain, France, 8:23.6; 2. Bill Reddy, U.S., 8:33.2; 3. Guy Texereau, France, 8:41.5; 4. Jim Morris, U.S., 8:41.6.

500-METER—1. Ken Swenson, U.S., 1:47.5; 2. Mark Wimsor, U.S., 1:47.8; 3. Gilles Simon, France, 1:48.8; 4. Jean-Pierre Dufrenoy, France, 1:49.6.

SHOT PUT—1. Pierre Colnard, France, 19.70 m; 2. Steve Wilhelm, U.S., 19.44 m; 3. Al Feuerbach, Empire State, 19.35 m; 4. Arjunt Beer, France, 18.90.

5000-METER—1. Jean Wadoux, France, 15:25.0; 2. Frank Shorter, U.S., 15:42.4; 3. Jean Levallet, France, 15:44.6; 4. Rick Riller, U.S., 15:55.8.

